SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Rampaging demonstrators burned a Bank of America branch to a skeleton early today while outnumbered police and firemen watched helplessly.

The California highway patrol declared a state of emergency and sealed off the Isla Vista district near the campus of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Out Of Hand
Sheriff James W. Webster described the situation as "completely out of hand" and asked Gov. Ronald Reagan for 500 National Guardsmen.

The young people, numbering about 1,000, apparently were protesting both the Vietnam war and what a student spokesman called "increasing police repression aimed at stifling political dissent in Santa Barbara and around the country."

The outbreak of fires and window smashing followed a campus speech by William Kunstler, a defense attorney in the Chicago riot trial.

By early morning, several hours after the sheriff had described the situation as out of hand, the number of demonstrators still on the streets was reported at about 300.

Force Augmented
A deputy sheriff said scores of deputies and policemen from other California counties and cities were en route to Santa Barbara to augment a force of 80 local officers and 150 highway patrolmen.

Firemen were ordered to stay away from the bank blaze for fear demonstrators might attack them.

"We went to the fire but the sheriff's men lined across the street wouldn't let us by," said Fire Capt. Clarence Saletti. "They feared for our lives because of the demonstrators."

Other Fires Put Out
Young people with fire extinguishers quickly doused a small fire demonstrators had set in the bank Wednesday evening. But sheriff's deputies said another fire was touched off shortly before midnight.

Douglas Trueblood, 20, a non-student, told a newsman that the branch of the nation's largest commercial bank was fired because "it holds the money for the war in Vietnam."

A solid phalanx of officers, helmeted and wielding night sticks, moved through a major disturbance center, Perfect Park, clearing demonstrators from their path.

Officers Pelted
The retreating protesters pelted the oncoming officers with rocks and taunted them with shouts of "Piggy! Piggy! Piggy!" as they darted away.

Student unrest, including window-breaking, developed Tuesday in advance of Kunstler's talk.

When his lecture ended, about 500 of the audience wandered from the campus area to an Isla Vista vacant lot.

Members of the crowd began pelting passing police cars with rocks and bottles and breaking store windows on the main street, Embarcadero del Mar.

Shifting a block to a parallel street, demonstrators set fire to the Bank of America branch where $3,000 worth of windows had been smashed Tuesday night.

School Starts Anti-Drug Plan

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Convinced that today's glue sniffer may become tomorrow's narcotics addict, the Laredo school system will launch next month an antidrug program starting with the first grade.

Financed by a federal grant of $9,000, two dozen teachers spent months collecting information on the subject and drawing up classroom guide material.

"We had nothing to go by," Asst. School Supt. Vidal Trevino told an interviewer. "It's a completely new area."

Trevino agrees with a physician adviser to the project who says that by the time a child reaches junior-high-school age indoctrination in the dangers of drugs may come too late.

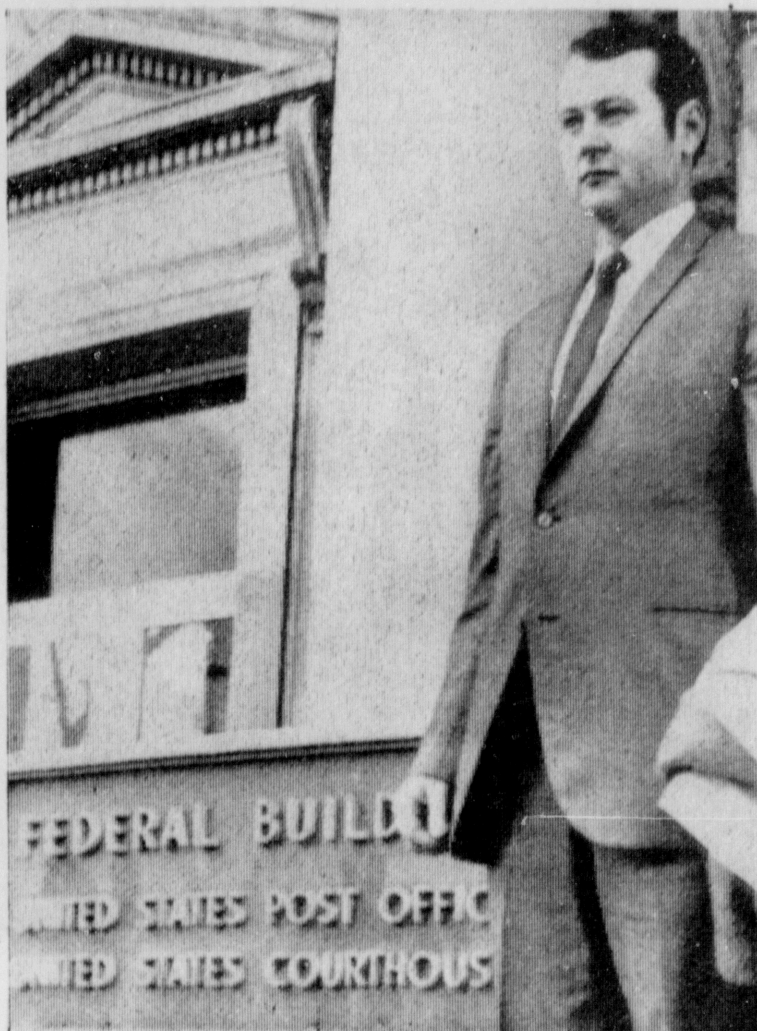

"The glue sniffers and the gasoline sniffers are already started," the physician said. "And that's where it all begins."

Trevino said no classes would be devoted entirely to drug hazards. Instead, the subject will be worked into present standard courses.

First, second and third graders will learn about the enticing bottles in the family medicine cabinet. Fourth through sixth graders will receive instruction on the dangers of glue and marijuana.

The emphasis then will turn to heroin, LSD, amphetamines, barbiturates and related drugs and, as one teacher put it, "whatever else is in vogue."

The pilot project begins with 5,300 pupils. Next fall it will include all of the school districts 17,000 youngsters.

Acquittal Noted In Algiers Trial

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — An all-white jury has found three white policemen and a Negro private guard innocent of conspiracy in the Algiers Motel incident in which three black youths were killed during Detroit's 1967 riots.

The jurors deliberated nearly nine hours before reaching a verdict Wednesday in U.S. District Court.

The three suspended police officers—Ronald August, 30, Robert Paille, 34, and David Senak, 25—all said they would seek reinstatement with the Detroit police force. They indicated they might seek full back pay for their two and a half years off duty.

Melvin Dismukes, 36, the Negro private guard, said he feared for his life. "Every place I go, I go armed," Dismukes told newsmen after the verdict. "This is a great load off my mind, but when I leave here it's just the beginning. I don't know who is waiting for me out in the dark."

The four defendants were accused of conspiring "to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate" ten occupants of the motel when they raided the building July 26, 1967 in a search for reported snipers.

Witnesses said two white girls and eight Negro youths were beaten with rifle butts or otherwise abused by police and National Guardsmen.

If found guilty, the defendants could have been sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $10,000.

In an earlier trial, August was acquitted of first-degree murder in the death of one of the three youths slain at the motel—Aubrey Pollard, 19—and Dismukes was found innocent of felonious assault in connection with one of the alleged beatings.

Two other criminal cases arising from the incident are still pending in Michigan's appellate courts.

U.S. To Back Environment Plans: Nixon
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors his administration will make good on past—as well as future—federal commitments in the drive to improve the American environment.

The President also made a plea for support for his welfare reform and tax sharing proposals during a speech to the National Governors Conference Wednesday.

The governors were due on Capitol Hill today for a series of conferences with members of the House and Senate on current legislation. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was the scheduled speaker at today's windup business session.

Keynoting the three-day conference, Nixon said improvement of the environment is top priority business of his administration.

In environment and in other fields, Nixon said, states and governors have sometimes relied on federal promises that went unmatched by federal money. That will not happen again, he pledged.

"We are not going to make promises in this field that we are not able to fund," Nixon said. He said he considers his $10 billion, five-year program for water pollution control adequate to the need. "If it is not adequate we will go back for more funds."

"We've made a commitment," he said. Nixon promised reimbursement to states that already have spent funds under the 1966 Clean Water Act.

An administration official said that means payment of $322 million to states for projects approved but never funded due to appropriations cuts.

Angered Solons Ask Disclosure Of Aims In Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an angry attack against the American role in Laos, a bipartisan group of senators has demanded the administration disclose how heavily the United States is involved in the war-torn Asian nation.

"The facts of our involvement have been concealed from the American people," Tennessee Democrat Albert Gore declared during floor debate Wednesday, a charge supported by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill.

Mistakes Feared
Another Republican, Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland, said "Laos has become an arena for the repetition of the mistakes of our Vietnamese involvement."

"I believe that the American people—and the Congress—will not ultimately accept a withdrawal policy (from Vietnam) that entails merely a changing of uniforms and titles and re-engagement in Laos."

The Maryland senator pointed to "news reports from usually reliable publications" indicating hundreds of former Green Berets military advisers "swarming over the country in numbers proportionately larger than the Kennedy administration commitment of advisers" in Vietnam.

Enemy Success Noted
The debate, conducted before only a handful of senators, came against a backdrop of a strong North Vietnamese force that has moved quickly and with great success against the Royal Laotian army in spite of heavy bombings by U.S. B52s.

So far the North Vietnamese have captured the strategic Plain of Jars and the nearly as important airstrip and town of Muong Soui.

The fear that the American fighting role in Vietnam is fast spreading to neighboring Laos threaded through many of the arguments made on the floor Wednesday.

Involvement Feared
Both Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Kentucky Republican John Sherman Cooper made this point, with Mansfield stating that if U.S. involvement in Laos grows "all the plans for Vietnamization will go down the drain and we will find ourselves in a most difficult situation."

Pointing to President Nixon's peace efforts in Vietnam, Cooper said "I do not see how we can get out of that situation by becoming involved in another war."

So far, the administration has refused to disclose how many Americans are serving in Laos, the rate of American air missions in that country or the U.S. casualty rate.

Nixon Suggests Scrapping Of Reform Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon proposed to Congress today the scrapping or reform of 57 reform federal programs at a saving in the coming year of $2.5 billion.

In a special message, Nixon said, congressional action would be required to achieve $1.1 billion of the savings and that he will do the rest through administrative moves.

The pruning operation would include reform of the 20-year-old federal program to aid to schools in areas housing large numbers of federal personnel—a program Nixon has tried without success to cut in the past.

The upshot of the Nixon plan in this field would be to shift more funds from relatively wealthy communities to poorer districts and at the same time cut total annual appropriations by $392 million.

Another item on the Nixon agenda would be elimination of a little-known board of federal tea tasters that has been in operation since 1897 and costs $1 million a year.

Youth, 18, Faces Murder Charge In Rock Incident

DETROIT (AP) — An 18-year-old Detroit youth was held for arraignment today on a second-degree murder charge stemming from a fatal rock-throwing incident on a Detroit freeway.

Police said rocks and chunks of concrete were thrown from an overpass onto I 75 near Schaefer Highway in southwest Detroit Feb. 18.

One of the missiles crashed through the windshield of Nicholas J. Cerasuolo, 37, of Ecorse, killing him. His 11-year-old daughter was in the car but escaped injury. She reached over and turned off the ignition. Another vehicle was hit by a rock but its driver was not hurt.

A second-degree murder conviction carries a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Cool Reception Fails To Chill Pompidou Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a cool congressional reception for President Georges Pompidou of France, President Nixon says he hopes talks with the French leader will bring "real progress on fundamental issues."

After discussions with Nixon today at the White House, Pompidou and his wife fly to Cape Kennedy for a tour of U.S. space shot facilities before going on to San Francisco. Other stops on his eight-day tour include Chicago and New York.

At a formal dinner put on by Pompidou at the French Embassy Wednesday night, Nixon expressed his hope the discussion "will produce results and real progress on fundamental issues that we want."

Nixon apparently referred to the Middle East situation, on which the French and Americans take differing positions, and the roles of the United States and France in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The French President said at the dinner he and Nixon "understood each other very well and we agree in what is fundamental and essential."

At a joint session of Congress earlier in the day, Pompidou was applauded one of eight times when he quoted—in English—the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower's statement that "every nation has a right to live its own life." But one congressman, Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., quietly walked out during the 25-minute address and perhaps a third of the senators and representatives did not attend the session.

Pompidou professed an even-handed French policy in the Middle East but did not touch on his country's sale of jet fighters to Libya, the reason for the boycott of his address by legislators who contended it was designed to aid the Arab side.

He said the French desire peace and feel the United States—"the most powerful nation on earth"—has the greatest responsibility to promote peace.

Campus In Buffalo Scene Of Violence

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Campus and city police clashed with students in a rock-throwing, furniture-smashing series of battles on the State University at Buffalo campus Wednesday night.

Eleven persons, including seven campus policemen, three Buffalo policemen and a demonstrator, were injured. None was believed seriously hurt.

Sixteen persons were arrested on a variety of charges, including assault and disorderly conduct.

The acting president of the university said black student groups had no role in the trouble. But the melee appeared to have been an offshoot of a dispute between university athletic officials and black basketball players.

As the temperature dived toward zero, the demonstrators returned to dormitories, and Dr. Peter F. Regan, acting president of the university, called a postmidnight meeting of top administrators to discuss the situation.

Before the meeting, Regan issued a terse statement through an aide, blaming all the trouble on the radical left.

"We deeply regret," he said, "that the radical left proved again their irresponsibility and their lust for destruction."

Black basketball players have claimed they were not treated equally with white players and that their education was being paid for by funds from poverty programs rather than the athletic scholarships awarded white players.

Several black players quit the squad earlier in the season. Students supporting the blacks staged a sit-in on the basketball floor Tuesday night, preventing Buffalo from playing Stony Brook State University.

Black students and university officials met most of the day Wednesday to discuss the dispute. A university spokesman said they appeared to be making progress, but it was decided to cancel the Wednesday night game here with Albany State.

Wallace To Run

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — George C. Wallace announced today that he will run for governor of Alabama again in the May 5 Democratic primary election, saying he feels the most pressing problem is "the present crisis in public education."

The announcement at a news conference pits Wallace head on against incumbent Albert Brewer. Wallace's choice for lieutenant governor four years ago.

Drive To Put Parochial On Ballot Begins

U.P. Teachers Abandon Friday Moratorium Plan

BY DAVE ANDREWS

RAPID RIVER — Teachers of five Upper Peninsula counties, aware of this morning's announcement in Lansing of a massive petition drive to put the parochial issue on the ballot and citing it as one of two new developments in the parochial battle, voted Wednesday night not to stage a proposed one-day moratorium Friday.

A campaign to obtain 300,000 signatures and place the issue of parochial on the ballot in November in Michigan was announced in Lansing today by the Council Against Parochialism.

Terry Herndon, executive secretary, Michigan Education Association, read the statement at a press conference this morning at the Jack Tar Hotel.

The Council Against Parochialism has many groups in its camp including Citizens to Advance Public Education, the MEA, Michigan Council of Churches and others.

Dr. David Evans of the United Methodist Church introduced representatives of the various groups aligned with the Council Against Parochialism.

The statement of the Council,

read by Herndon announced that:

• The Council has viewed with rising concern the continued efforts of various groups to gain public funds for private and parochial schools, and that the concern is increased because the efforts have been backed by Gov. Milliken and key members of the legislature.

• The Council seeks to make it abundantly clear for all time to everyone that the public treasury should be closed to private interests.

• The Council will seek to secure 300,000 signatures of Michigan voters asking for a referendum on parochial in the November, 1970 election. Three effects are anticipated:

1 — The referendum will allow people to clarify intent when the new state constitution was adopted; 2 — The public will become aware of and respond to the "machinations" of the 1969-70 legislature; and 3 — Candidates will have to face the issue squarely in the state election.

T. Jack Boase of Ishpeming, president of the Region 17 Council of the Michigan Education Association, said the decision not to walkout was "not unanimous" but declined further comment on the feelings of the 60 teacher delegates who represented most of the public school districts in Delta, Menominee, Dickinson, Marquette and Schoolcraft counties.

Boase said the planned announcement was a "major factor" in the decision by the council.

The teachers met for over three hours in "executive session" in the multi-purpose room of the Rapid River school before announcing their decision not to leave classrooms to waiting reporters, who were not allowed in the general meeting.

A one-day "moratorium" designed to attract public attention to parochial and particularly to the pro-parochial positions of Rep. Dominic Jacobetti (D-Negaunee) and Rep. John Payant (R-Kingsford) was proposed last week by teacher representatives of the Region 17 Council.

Statement Read

Considered a strike by many school administrators and school board members in the U.P., the "moratorium" plans drew strong criticism from newspapers and legislators.

Boase, who delivered the statement drafted by the Regional Council, refused all comment Wednesday night on the announcements in Lansing, although he said the group did "not necessarily" learn of the plans at the meeting.

The prepared statement read: "Two significant developments have occurred since we began planning for a possible moratorium.

"First, we have learned of new developments in the parochial battle which will be announced in the next 24 hours. We believe these developments are of such magnitude as to call for a reassessment of our current attitude about a moratorium.

"Second, we have given full consideration to the request of Representatives (Russell) Helman (D-Dollar Bay) and (Charles) Varnum (R-Manistique) to refrain from carrying out the moratorium. We commend these two men for the fight they have put up on this issue and feel their fearless leadership deserves our loyal support. Their work is in dramatic contrast to the utter disregard of the public good exhibited by Representatives Jacobetti and Payant.

"These two developments, coupled with the fact that mere discussion of a moratorium has brought public awareness of the parochial problem into sharp and clear focus throughout the Upper Peninsula and possibly the State of Michigan.

"In addition, we believe we have already accomplished our original purpose without ever conducting the moratorium. We have received tremendous support for the idea — support which can only be interpreted as reflecting the ever growing public opposition to parochialism.

Say 'Misinformed'

"In regard to Mr. Jacobetti and Payant's charges against Arnold Korpi, again our legislators are misinformed.

"The teacher representatives of Region 17 made the motion regarding the proposed moratorium. (Editor's Note — The representatives charged Korpi with irresponsibility in suggesting a moratorium and Jacobetti demanded his resignation.) Mr. Korpi does not even have a vote on this council, but as our Region Director it was his responsibility to release the news to the public.

"Mr. Jacobetti asked for Mr. Korpi's resignation in the interest of public education. We ask only for an apology from Mr. Jacobetti, knowing we could never persuade him to resign, as it is evident that he will not follow the wishes of the majority of his constituents.

"We of Region 17 feel that both Representatives Jacobetti and Payant have used Mr. Korpi as their 'whipping boy' to cloud the issue, which is their total disregard for the majority of the peoples' wish concerning the parochial bill."

Most Represented

Boase said that most of the school districts in the five-county region were represented at the meeting and that some of those who weren't at the meeting had communicated their sentiments.

He emphasized that "all decisions are made by the delegates" and not by the Executive Council.

Korpi said that when the Regional Council met last Tuesday (Feb. 17) the moratorium day was just a recommendation for individual units to consider. He said the Council thought local MEA units could respond to the suggestion by last Thursday (Feb. 19) and that was why the proposed moratorium initially had been targeted for Friday, Feb. 20, but communication was not adequate to order a walkout.

"That's why this meeting was called," he said.

Not Binding

Neither Korpi or Boase would comment on whether or not the action ruling out a moratorium this week could be considered binding policy for the future.

Korpi said that would have to be considered separately.

Fred E. Benzie Jr., Ishpeming, a member of the Board of Directors of the MEA, said the Regional Council "unanimously commended" Korpi for his role in securing information needed by teachers to reach a decision and stressed the need for Jacobetti and Payant "to face the issue of parochialism in public forums. The voters in their respective legislative districts are now having representation without consultation."

In a related development, th

Hike Reported In Wholesale Price Index

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices rose three-tenths of one per cent in February, advancing the index to a point 4.7 per cent above that of a year earlier, the Labor Department reported today.

The index reached 116.3 per cent of the base period, 1957-59.

The estimate showed that industrial commodities advanced two-tenths of one per cent over the month, the smallest gain since July 1969. But farm products rose a full one per cent, somewhat more than usual for February, while processed foods and animal feeds edged down two-tenths of one per cent.

Metals and metal products again accounted for much of the increase in wholesale prices for industrial materials.

A downward price trend continued for lumber and wood products.

Cattle and hog quotations moved up substantially after dropping in January and fresh fruits were higher. These increases were partially offset in the farm products category by price declines for eggs, chickens, and fresh and dried vegetables.

Escanaba Area Board of Education adopted the following guidelines on future moratoriums by teachers, according to Supt. of Schools Luther M. Barrett:

"Neither the Board of Education nor the administration sanctions any sort of a walkout or work stoppage for any reason; any such moratorium or similar refusal of teachers to teach shall be considered a strike and subject to any remedies the Board has under law; all schools will be closed to all students; no Escanaba Education Association members will be permitted to report at their work stations and will not be paid; the only persons who will report to work and be paid will be administrators, clerical and custodial employees; there will be no public use of the buildings except for emergencies or for events for which a contract has been signed; the day lost will not be made up.

Mrs. Jean Worth Taken By Death

Mrs. Jean (Margaret) Worth died late Wednesday at her home, 2001 Lake Shore Dr., after a long illness.

Funeral services are to be held at 10 a. m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Escanaba, on Saturday, with a committal service following in the chapel of Riverside Cemetery, Menominee, before interment there.

Friends may call from 5 to 9 p. m. Friday at the Boyce Funeral Home.

Mrs. Worth, 62, was born in Menominee, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. St. Peter and was an alumnus of St. Mary's of the Woods Academy, Terre Haute, Ind., and of Trinity College, Washington, D. C.

She married Jean Worth on June 18, 1938 in Menominee and moved to Escanaba in 1955 when he was named editor of the Escanaba Daily Press. He retired in 1969.

Sen. Huber Says He Was Ignored By Michigan GOP

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—State Senator Robert Huber, R-Troy, said Wednesday that Republican Party leaders have "ignored" him in their search for a consensus candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Huber, the only formally announced candidate for the Congressional seat of Sen. Philip Hart, blamed his conservative label for the political snub. Speaking in Grand Rapids, Huber said he will direct his efforts at state Republican Party leaders in his quest for the nomination.

Hubert said he still expects Housing Secretary George Romney "to come galloping into the Senate race." He added that it was "very strange" that Mrs. Romney's candidacy has been announced by her husband.

Parolee Arrested In U.P. Sniper Case

MARQUETTE—A 19-year-old parolee from a Wisconsin correctional institution is being held in Marquette County Jail on charges stemming from an alleged sniper shooting at a Negaunee home.

The youth, William G. Giese, who now lives in the Negaunee area, was arraigned before District Judge George E. Hill Wednesday afternoon on charges of breaking and entering and felonious assault with a deadly weapon.

His arraignment was continued until he could seek legal counsel. He was ordered held under $2,000 bond.

Giese was identified as a parolee from the Fox Lake (Wis.) correctional camp where he had served a term for breaking and entering.

State police arrested Giese Tuesday night on charges of breaking into an unoccupied home near Negaunee where he obtained a .22 caliber rifle. He was also charged with firing three shots from the rifle through a living room window of the William Kosonen residence.

The bullets narrowly missed Mrs. Nelma Kosonen and her 13 year old daughter Mary Lou. One bullet struck a pillow between the two who were sitting on a davenport, another crashed into the wall and the third struck a Bible on a wall and a shelf.

College Center Building Fund Group Named

Mrs. J. Joseph Herbert of Manistique and Robert Arnold of Escanaba and Chillicothe, Ohio, are among persons named to a Walker Cisl College Center Fund committee for Lake Superior State College.

The announcement is made by Frank S. Hoholik of Manistique, chairman of the fund, who said that the fund had now reached nearly one-third of its $500,000 goal.

The committee includes persons from both the Upper and Lower Peninsulas. Others from the U. P. are Robert Sayles, Newberry, and Sam Cohodas, Ishpeming; and Prentiss M. Brown Sr., St. Ignace, who is honorary chairman.

HERMANVILLE — In an effort to provide adequate oxygen for fish at Hermansville Lake, several members of the William Anderson Sportsmen Club spent a recent afternoon using outboard motors to help add needed oxygen to the lake.

According to club officials, three years ago the club virtually saved the lake's fish population by using the same method. At that time, it was the first successful oxygen addition project completed on a Michigan lake.

Hermansville Lake is regularly checked for oxygen content. Three parts per million is considered by ecologists to be critical. Recently, Hermansville Lake's reading was down to two parts per million. This set the Anderson Sportsmen's Club into action.

First of all, holes were cut in the ice in a semi-circle about 100 to 200 feet from where the motors were used. The motors shoot the water over the ice and it runs back into the lake through the holes loaded with oxygen it has gathered traveling across the ice.

Members of the club plan to run the motors again this weekend in an effort to keep the lake's oxygen level above the critical point.

'Freedom Of Belief'

Varnum Defines His Opposition To Parochialism

Rep. Charles H. Varnum (R-Manistique) has consistently opposed the parochialism provision of Senate Bill 1082 and further defines his position in a recent statement.

"I prize my freedom of belief too highly to compromise it under political pressure," he said.

"If helping to preserve the principle underlying this freedom costs me my job as a state representative, I will gladly make the sacrifice."

Backers of parochialism are being led down the wrong road if they think they can have more state funding for private and parochial schools and not expect increased state controls, Varnum warns and says:

"The approach taken in Chapter II of Senate Bill 1082 will not save those private schools which are in danger of closing. However, it very likely would kill all private schools which are induced to rely upon it."

Serious Dangers

"Further, the parochialism provision of Senate Bill 1082 would seriously compromise the principles which have preserved and protected religious liberties."

Among major points in Varnum's statement are the following:

"It is unfortunate and something of a disservice to sincere and well intentioned people that the sales campaign to generate support for the Parochialism provision of Senate Bill 1082 has badly exaggerated its benefits while sweeping the serious dangers it creates under the rug. It would be easier for me, politically, to go along with this campaign and its confident promises, and to close my eyes to the facts. To do so, however, would be an abdication of my responsibility as a Legislator while at the same time working a terrible disservice to the cause of private education. Let me explain this further.

Four or 5 Systems

"In the first place, Chapter II of Senate Bill 1082 will not save the non-public schools. The $22 million proposed for its first year would not do it. In fact, the State doesn't have the money it would take.

"Proof of this is the public school financial crisis. Despite the State contributing approximately 52 per cent of the total State budget to public education in Michigan, some 50 or 60 public school districts around the State are on the verge of closing for lack of sufficient money. Public schools will get about $90 million more next year than they do now. However, this is $100 million short of their minimal needs, according to the Michigan Department of Education.

"The point is that even with all this effort we are not adequately supporting one school system. How then can we expect to support at any level of quality four or five school systems which is what we will be trying to do if Chapter II of Senate Bill 1082 passes.

Cost More, Not Less

"The stated ultimate goal of the Parochialism proponents is to secure funding of private schools equal to public school spending. The projected appropriation to accomplish this end would result in $200 million annually earmarked only for non-public schools, even if it took several years to reach this level. Obviously, this money would have to come from the public school funds or from the taxpayers' already worn pockets. Such a budget cut would stop public education in its tracks. More importantly, it would put private schools at the level which has already proven inadequate in the public schools.

"No child could then expect to receive more than a mediocre education no matter where he went to school. If the funds come from added taxes, it does not take an accountant to ascertain how hard the average taxpayer will be hit.

"The closing of non-public schools will indeed cost the taxpayer more, whether Parochialism is passed or not. It is clear to me, however, that much greater tax increases will be needed if it is passed. Support of several school systems is much more costly than the

Maddox Says Ax Handles Not Passed Around

CANTON, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox denied Wednesday that he passed out his famous Pickrick ax handles in a Capitol restaurant as claimed by a Negro congressman.

U. S. Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., accused the Georgia governor in the House eating place Tuesday and threatened to throw Maddox out bodily.

Maddox said that he had taken some of the ax handles to Washington because "they ask about these pickrick drumsticks. They represent the chicken we used to make."

"They're more popular in Washington than anywhere in the world. I've been mailing them, but it got to costing too much money I decided to take some up with me."

Maddox, who was in Washington to testify against extension of the Voting Rights Act, said that some Capitol policemen carried a crate of the ax handles with them to the restaurant with he went to eat, but that they left the crate outside.

"Some of the colored waiters came over and wanted some," Maddox said. He said he sent them outside to the Capitol policemen to get the handles and the argument started when they returned with them.

Maddox said that he is sorry about the incident because "in my 54 years I've never seen that expression of bitterness and hate and prejudice on one man."

He said that he hopes the congressman went to a drug store and got some medicine to calm himself—"he's sick."

Maddox said that the ax handles are so popular in Washington that "I'm going to have to start selling them instead of giving them away."

The governor said that although he didn't carry any in with him this past time, "in view of what happened I might carry one with me next time."

Oakland Singers Coming; Concert Set For March 3

The Escanaba Area High School Vocal Music Department is sponsoring the appearance of the Oakland University Singers on March 3 in the High School auditorium. Concert time is 8 p. m. No admission will be charged, but a free will offering will be received for the High School Choral uniform fund.

John Dovaras, director of choral activities at Oakland University in Rochester, Mich., is a native of Boston. He has studied at Boston University, Northwestern University, and the University of Michigan. His musical background includes training under Thor Johnson, Allen Lannom, and Julius Herford.

While serving with the U. S. Army in Berlin, Dovaras directed the Command Soldiers Chorus and Allied Forces Mixed Chorus (1955-1957). Prior to coming to Michigan he taught vocal music in Massachusetts, Indiana, and Wisconsin.

He is now in his fourth year at Oakland University and directs the 180 voice University Chorus as well as the 32 voice Oakland Singers.

Dovaras has informed the local committee that the University Russian Folk Ensemble will also be on the Escanaba program. With the Ensemble is a former Escanaba resident, Jim Bernhart, son of the late Fred Bernhart, former Delta County 4-H extension director, and Mrs. Bernhart.

The Singers will be housed in private homes overnight and anyone wishing to host some of the young people is asked to contact Conrad Beck at 786-1054 or 786-7634.

Voters League Hears Debate On Parochialism

Walter F. Dartland and Arnold J. Korpi presented differing views on aid to non-public schools to the Escanaba League of Women Voters and members of the community at a meeting this week.

Dartland, attorney and engineer from Houghton, told the League we are living in a pluralistic society, and parents should have the right to choose between two systems of education — private and public — for their children. "Society should not be exposed to one form of education."

Dartland pointed out that aid to non-public schools includes aid to private schools as well as religiously oriented schools. Korpi, U.P. director of the Michigan Education Association told the group it is very difficult to support several school systems. The opponents to parochialism, he said, do not question the right of private schools to exist but the financing of these schools with public funds.

Both men discussed the constitutionality of the issue of aid to non-public schools. Korpi said aid to non-public schools would violate the principle of separation of church and state. He stated it would compel a man to pay for beliefs he himself does not hold. Dartland said the U.S. Constitution allows for diversity of opinion and felt on the national level aid to non-public schools was constitutional.

How to support multiple school systems was also discussed. Dartland said that 1 out of 5 young people stay in the U.P., 80 or 90 per cent are exported. It is our responsibility to educate them so they can function here or in any other place they might go, he said. Income is the only fair criteria for taxing, he said. Both men agreed that the property tax was not sufficient to finance education.

The provisions of Senate Bill 1082 and the Spencer Bill were discussed briefly. Although the Spencer Bill provides more money for public schools, Korpi indicated both bills provide for parochialism and the passage of parochialism would create serious problems for the schools. It would worsen race relations, create a racial imbalance in the public schools as well as promote religious segregation, he said.

If the bill is passed, teachers of secular subjects in non-public schools would receive their checks from the state or the intermediate school district, Dartland stated. Books would be chosen from an approved list prepared by the state.

Korpi urged everyone to study the issue of parochialism, make up one's mind and speak out — to neighbors, legislators, the governor, and the news media.

The League is in the process of making a two year study on financing education in Michigan.

Majority Rights

A month before he took office as president of the University of Michigan, Robben W. Fleming condemned demonstrators who disrupt speeches or try to block employer and military interviews on college campuses.

"A great university is a place where neither the tyranny of the majority nor the minority is acceptable," he said in a speech at the 1968 fall commencement exercises at Michigan State University.

"The right to dissent vanishes when those who disagree with a given kind of employment... can tell others who have a different view that they may not exercise individual freedom of choice." Complete disruption of speeches and obstruction of campus recruiting interviews are "tactics wholly incompatible with the basic tenets of a great university," Dr. Fleming said.

"Four year universities have fought the good fight against restrictions on the kind of speakers who might appear on campus. Within the university community we have insisted that ideas cannot be obliterated by suppression, but only by a free discussion of their merits."

"How are we able to explain that while all kinds of speakers may come to the campus, some of them will be so disrupted that their views may not be heard? Is the rule henceforth to be that only those speakers who express sufficiently innocuous views to offend no one may be heard?"

Despite the sagacity of Dr. Fleming's words, a minority of students at the University of Michigan obviously believe there is a double standard governing the right of free speech within the university. During January and February, protesters have sought to prevent persons of opposing persuasions from speaking on campus. On Jan. 21, a military recruiter had black paint poured over him. A recruiter from Allied Chemical Co. was harassed the same day. Eight days later, a recruiter from Du Pont was prevented from leaving the office where he was interviewing.

The latest outbreaks occurred in demonstrations against General Electric recruiters on campus.

Although, according to Dr. Fleming, the overwhelming number of engineering students want to interview with General Electric and other companies holding military contracts with the federal government, the minority represented by the demonstrators are refusing to allow the majority their rights — and they are resorting to violence in the process.

Bottle-throwing marchers clashed with city and state police officers and sheriff's deputies in Ann Arbor. Numerous students who have tried to block GE campus recruiters or led street battles have been arrested. The university has filed criminal charges against some of those involved in the disruptions.

At a recent news conference, Gov. William Milliken described Dr. Fleming as a man of "sound judgment (who) as much as any person I know invites and believes in dissent."

This didn't prevent Dr. Fleming from calling in police in the latest disruptions at U-M. The governor supported Dr. Fleming's decision to summon police.

The vast majority of the public undoubtedly supports this decision. Somehow the rights of the majority must also be respected.

Red's Can't Lose

The Communists can't lose, however the war in Vietnam turns out. The conflict will be profitable to them, either territorially or economically.

While the Soviets provide the vast majority of arms and supplies to Communist North Vietnam to pursue its policies of conquest in Southeast Asia, they also sell raw materials to the United States for the construction of military aircraft. The Kremlin is able to underwrite Communist aggression partly on the profits made from selling chrome ore to the U. S. In effect, we are subsidizing the killing of American soldiers in South Vietnam.

The reason that the United States has to buy chromium, which is an essential ingredient of stainless steel, from Moscow is that Washington pursues a British policy toward Rhodesia, which produces better ore and sells it for less than the USSR. The socialist regime of Harold Wilson has established trade sanctions against the government of Ian Smith because the Rhodesians exercised their right of self-determination three years ago and declared independence from Britain.

The Johnson administration went along with the embargo, on the grounds that Smith's government represents only the white minority. Should Washington pursue the same attitude toward other countries, only a few nations in Western Europe would qualify for trade with the United States. Despite the fact that the sanctions are directed against a government which seeks friendly relations with the United States and resists Communist encroachment in Africa, President Nixon has not seen fit to end the efforts to undercut the Rhodesian government. Consequently, the inference that other countries draw is that the United States supports, or at least condones, the Communist-trained guerrillas who seek to overthrow the Smith government.

The Nixon administration should turn its embargo policy upside down and end trade with our enemies, the Communists, and open it up to the Rhodesians.

Iron Mountain High School's "5 High" television quiz team is at it again. For the second time in a row, the school became a three-time winner on the WFRV-TV teen panel show in Green Bay. The Mountaineers scored their third straight victory by a score of 245-95 over Coleman, Wis., and, according to rules of the program were retired undefeated. Previous victories were scored over West DePere, Wis., 270-55, and Ashwaubenon, Wis., 215-170. For its efforts, the Iron Mountain team collected $300 in scholarship money, a World Book dictionary and two World Book encyclopedia sets.

Aerospace Advances May Help Alligators

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I must confess that the idea of supersonic air transport leaves me cold.

Whether I get to Europe a few hours sooner would, presumably, only intensify the "jet lag"—meaning the terrible urge to fall asleep during the speeches at a luncheon when it is still only breakfast time at home and the equally disconcerting inability to fight insomnia at 3 a. m., which Scott Fitzgerald quite rightly said was the hour of the Dark Night of the Soul.

So, when Sen. William Proxmire objects to putting up SST (supersonic transport) money to keep a project going I tend to shrug my shoulders. After all, he's promising to save me some cash.

My friend Jim Burnham, who writes fascinating pieces in National Review about the connection between high technology and remaining one jump ahead of the would-be hangmen of Moscow who want to "bury us," tells me I'm all wrong in my attitude. It is not the SST as an isolated item that he defends; it is the whole aerospace industry, which he insists is the "foundation of American technological, economic and military pre-eminence."

Not only has the aerospace industry transformed world travel (and incidentally brought needed foreign exchange to us from those who buy our planes); it has also sparked the development of computers, military and communications satellites, miniaturization, sophisticated new metallurgy and the advanced techniques of "systems management" that will eventually enable us to zero in on our oppressive pollution and crime problems.

It is significant that Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles had to turn to the aerospace companies for advice on how to get maximum efficiency out of his police force without buying new patrol cars that the taxpayers had no wish to finance.

The point Jim Burnham makes is that mankind is going to have a supersonic transport whether I like it or not. If this country doesn't come up with it, a British-French consortium or even a Soviet government agency will step in and corner the huge international market, that, willy-nilly, will insist on using it.

The British-French Concorde prototypes have already completed hundreds of hours of test flights, and by 1973 there might very well be SSTs in commercial use that will carry a 100,000 passengers a year per plane. Burnham asks if we are going to surrender the market here while we are arguing about the national priorities of Florida alligators.

As one who wishes the alligators well, I might be willing to sacrifice some of the Boeing Co.'s profits to keep them safe from extinction in the Everglades. But nations can become extinct as well as animals.

Taking Sen. Proxmire's crusade against the SST as a symbol, are we in danger of relinquishing the control of our own destiny by doing an irreparable harm to our aerospace industry?

Rep. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, who may be making a pitch to move upwards into the Senate, has recently emerged as the most eloquent spokesman in public life for the Burnham contention that the U. S. will stand or fall on the quality of its space program. Where Burnham talks in generalities, Weicker talks in specifics. The spin-offs of our space program have included such things as a fluoroscopic camera that will identify possibly cancerous tumors in their earliest stages.

Space scientists have made it technically possible to link a miniature radar and television lens to the optic nerve, which will enable the blind to "see." A fuel cell, designed for use in moon-going capsules, may make a smog-free automobile possible. Another offshoot of the space technology is a dentist drill that works without vibration.

Then there are miniature TV cameras so small that they can be swallowed to spy on ulcers, and an instrument so tiny that it can be floated into the bloodstream with a hypodermic needle in order to transmit information on what is going on in a damaged heart.

Letters To The Press

PAROCHIAID PROTEST

The people of Escanaba who have school age children in the public school system may have heard a bit of mumbo jumbo around their house last week about "the teachers going out on strike" or something to the tune of "Whoopie! We may not have to go to school if the teachers walk out."

The reason I am making myself a committee of one and writing this letter is because I have just awakened from atop the snowbank which I must have been dozing all winter to find that the State of Michigan is in real trouble over Senate Bill 1082, Chapter II which deals with parochiaid. Also, I've just spent some 20 minutes on a long distance telephone call to Charles H. Varnum, 107th District member of the State House of Representatives, finding out what all this business is about.

According to Rep. Varnum, the parochiaid bill is very close to passing. If we don't get busy and raise one whale of a fuss over this paragon of deception, that has more holes in it than a fish net, we are going to be a sorry bunch of citizens.

For example, this parochiaid doesn't just include Catholic and public school support from our tax dollars — any idiot who wants to go out and start a private school to teach the overthrow of the United States Government can do so and apply for this tax money. It would be quite possible for me to start a private school for 16-year-olds with the sole purpose of teaching them how to blow up houses in the State of Michigan whose address didn't appear on page 22 of the local telephone directory and the taxpayers of the state could be supporting this ridiculousness.

If parochiaid passes we are going to end up supporting everything from Black Panthers to most anything you can think of and there aren't even enough funds to support the existing public schools.

Weicker does not object to the use of tax money to support a space program. The program we now have, so he tells us, "is paying for itself."

According to his figures, a $35 billion government investment has been responsible for a $200 billion growth in the national economy. And some of the tax revenues made possible by that $200 billion may yet save the Florida alligators.

WHO DUNNIT

TROY, N. Y. (AP) — The federal government will pay for information leading to the conviction of persons who dump refuse in navigable waters.

This information came to light as local, state and federal officials tried to find out who dumped a garbage-truck load of refuse into the Hudson River north of Troy late in August. The federal law prohibiting such dumping calls for a fine not exceeding $2,500 nor less than $500, or by imprisonment or both, with one-half of the fine to be paid to the "person or persons giving information which shall lead to conviction."

The bidding:

West North East South
Pass Pass 3♦ 3♠

Opening lead—four of diamonds.

Let's say you have the West hand and lead your singleton diamond against four spades. Partner wins with the jack and continues with the A-K, on which you play the 6-3 of hearts as declarer follows suit.

East obediently returns a low heart, but declarer goes up with the ace, cashes the A-K of clubs, enters with dummy with a trump, ruffs a club, plays another trump to dummy, ruffs another club, then leads a third trump to dummy, and now discards his seven of hearts on the jack of clubs to bring home the contract.

Perhaps you would go on to the next hand without giving the matter any further thought, but actually you could have stopped the contract by adopting a different method of defense.

Instead of discarding a heart on the third round of diamonds, you should have ruffed partner's ace and returned a trump!

Had you elected to do this, South would have been unable to make the contract. Your trump return would have killed one of dummy's vital entries before declarer had a chance to cash his A-K of clubs, and South would eventually have lost a heart trick to go down one.

Of course, trumping partner's ace may appear to be a drastic move, but the play makes a lot of sense if you consider it fully.

To begin with, the play cannot cost a thing, since the trump you are wasting is of no use at all to you.

But more important than that is the absolute certainty that if South has either a losing heart or a losing club in his hand, he will find it utterly impossible to make the contract if you ruff partner's ace and return a trump. It is just as simple as that!

Ann Landers

Mary Wins Her Bet, Ruins Reputation

Dear Ann Landers: My best friend has ruined her reputation for $10. I'm sure it wasn't the money that made her do it. It was pride. Here is what happened.

Mary (made-up name) has an unusually groovy build for a girl of 15. She also has perfect posture which causes some people to think she is trying to advertise her best assets.

Last week Joe (a fellow in our class) went up to Mary and told her he and three other guys had put together a pool of $10. They believe she is faking up and want to bet her $10 that she is faking out the viewing public.

Mary said she was sick of those false rumors and that she would not prove it to all the guys, but she would prove it to a representative and he could tell the others. Joe said, "O.K." We'll draw straws to see who gets to see the proof.

Joe must have won because that evening he took Mary for a ride. She won, of course, and he gave her the $10.

Of course the story spread all over the school the next morning and now Mary can't hold her head up. To make matters worse, the other three guys refused to accept a second-hand report and Joe had to pay the whole $10 himself. Please tell me how to help Mary regain her lost reputation. — A Friend

Dear Friend: Sorry, I left my magic wand in my other purse. Mary's best bet is to put this incident out of her mind and conduct herself in a way that will help people forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am the mother of two children and have been divorced for eight years. For the first time in my life I am truly in love — with a homosexual.

I was charmed by his marvelous laugh and his cheery smile. Then by his warm personality and his delightful sense of humor. Now it is total love.

He says he has never felt this way about anyone — that he has severed all ties with his gay friends, that he wants to dedicate his whole life to making me happy. He also says he wonders now if he was ever really a homosexual.

My children adore him and want us to marry. I am tortured by indecision. Will our love cool one day and will he return to his other life? I can't face the thought of giving him up. Life without him would have no meaning. I am depending on you to tell me what to do. Yes or No? — In Love But Hesitant

Dear L.L.B.H.: Sorry, I'm not about to tell a woman to go ahead and marry a homosexual. Talk this over with a therapist who has had homosexual patients. He can best appraise you of your chances for happiness.

Dear Ann Landers: I am seven years old. My mommy is helping me with this letter. My friend and I had this Club. Every time we had a meeting we each put a dime in the treasury. My friend moved away. She didn't tell me where she went. I have $3.80 that belongs to the Club. Do I get to keep it? — Ontario, Calif.

Dear On Give the money to a worthy charity. I recommend the American Cancer Society. They need it.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Department of Civil Service is looking for 50 women who have bachelor's or master's degree and can fill state jobs on a parttime basis.

Franklin DeWald, state personnel director, said a large number of professionally trained women are not working because "their family obligations prevent them from accepting full-time employment."

Tech Students Plan Pollution Teach-In

HOUGHTON — Michigan Tech students making plans for an April 22 teach-in on environmental problems have gained the assistance of university administration and faculty.

They will work together to seek long-range results as well as activity for the teach-in, it was decided at a meeting of a committee named by Dr. Dean Stebbins, vice president for academic affairs.

(A teach-in also is scheduled at Northern Michigan University on April 22.)

Yankee Death Toll Off Pace

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war dropped slightly last week, while the Saigon government's total of battlefield dead increased by 139, and enemy casualties were 303 above those for the week before, the allied commands announced today.

The U.S. Command's weekly casualty report said 83 Americans were killed in action last week and 657 were wounded. The week before 96 dead and 589 wounded were reported.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 361 government troops were killed and 1,123 were wounded last week, compared with 222 and 710 the previous week. The allied commands claimed 2,469 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed last week; the week before the total was 2,166.

With the report, total official casualties in the war rose to 40,645 Americans killed in combat, 267,831 Americans wounded, 100,656 government troops killed, 225,523 wounded, and 603,783 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed.

South Vietnamese forces reported hard fighting in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon Wednesday and today, with 107 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed in half a dozen battles. Field reports said 18 government troops were killed and 43 were wounded.

LEADS IN "Once Upon A Mattress" to be produced by the Holy Name Drama Club check cues before rehearsal. Bob DeCamp, left, and Paul Guenette will play Prince Dauntless and Beth Knauf, right, and Chris Nault will be Princess Winifred.

Experienced Cast Rehearses Play

"Once Upon A Mattress," the 4th annual musical, to be presented March 8-11 by the Holy Name Drama Club, will display acting experience as well as musical talent.

To allow more students to participate and gain the experience of a dramatic production, lead roles are double cast and students go on stage every other night.

Double cast as Prince Dauntless are Paul Guenette and Bob DeCamp.

Guenette, a senior, is no stranger to the stage and has participated in many Drama Club productions. "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," "Oliver," "The Birds," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "The Lottery," and "I Married Irene Because She Has Eyes Like Abraham Lincoln" are a few of his many credits.

Paul was voted best supporting actor of 1969 as Dodger in the musical "Oliver" by the Drama Club, and was student director of "Opening Night" in this year's Coffee House Theater. Paul is also the president of the Drama Club.

DeCamp, a sophomore, had parts in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" and "Boy Meets Family." He is a member of the band and mixed chorus.

Beth Knauf and Chris Nault are double cast as Princess Winifred. Miss Knauf, a junior, has been seen in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," "Oliver," and "The Man Who Came to Dinner." She has been in the girls chorus and mixed chorus for three years.

Miss Nault, a senior, has participated in "Guys and Dolls," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," and "Oliver." She has been a member of girls and mixed chorus for four years.

2 More Senators To Vote Against Judge Carswell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Jacob K. Javits and George S. McGovern said today they will vote against confirmation of G. Harrold Carswell's Supreme Court nomination because of dissatisfaction with his civil rights record.

Public opposition in the Senate to the Tallahassee, Fla., federal appeals judge reached 18 with the Javits-McGovern announcements. More senators are expected to come out against Carswell but indications still point to his confirmation.

McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat, considered a possible presidential aspirant in 1972, said in a prepared speech "I am appalled that our President would regard this nominee as a worthy appointment to the nation's highest court."

Marines Charged In Vietnam Deaths

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Five American Marines have been charged with killing 16 South Vietnamese women and children in a village south of Da Nang Feb. 19, military spokesmen announced today.

The names of the Marines and the village were not disclosed immediately.

A spokesman for the 1st Marine Division said the men were members of a combat patrol operating in the Que Son district about 27 miles south of Da Nang. Another Marine patrol found the bodies and reported what they saw to higher authorities.

Welfare Bill Victory Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appears headed for a major victory in the House as the powerful Ways and Means Committee drives to clear a bill closely paralleling the administration's sweeping and expensive welfare reform proposals.

The committee, once considered a major roadblock to the legislation, worked today to complete action on the proposal and send it to the floor, where its chances for passage are rated good.

Committee chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., indicated to newsmen he had decided not to block approval of the proposal in committee, buoying the administration's hopes of House passage.

President Nixon's hopes obviously were raised. He told the National Governors' Conference Wednesday the prospects for passage had improved and vigorous support from the governors "might put it over the top."

Meantime, a panel of the National Governors' Conference headed by New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller set a meeting with Mills to discuss the welfare proposals. Rockefeller said he is seeking a revised bill so that the federal government would assume the total cost of the program.

Briefly Told

School Aid Vote Nears; Turmoil Runs Rampant

LANSING (AP) — Democratic leaders in the Michigan House say they hope for a final vote next week to end more than 2 1/2 months of mind-boggling debate over a $1-billion state school aid bill.

Plenty Of Turmoil

But Wednesday afternoon's session showed there's still plenty of turmoil in the bill that combines a precedent-setting $22-million grant to parochial schools with other spending levels requiring as much as $300 million in new taxes.

Majority Floor Leader George F. Montgomery, D-Detroit, said a new round of amendments to the much-revised substitute for a bill passed late last year by the Senate mean it likely will be next week before any "all-out push" for passage.

New Tactics Tested

Meanwhile, GOP Minority Leader Robert E. Waldron of Grosse Pointe tested new tactics in his determined bid to strip the parochial section from the bill. After bringing the House to a standstill by a series of procedural challenges, Waldron said he would try again when the bill comes up for final action.

In another development, Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica, principal author of the compromise bill now before the House, said his own bill was objectionable and he might well vote against it.

Spencer said the compromise measure, estimated at $1.23 billion, "would totally destroy out-of-state schools." He blasted Gov. William G. Milliken for opposing efforts to raise the extra taxes to finance the massive bill.

"I'd rather see the whole thing go down to defeat than pass such an outmoded concept," Spencer said. Referring to reports of Milliken's recent political difficulties with former Gov. George Romney over a GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate, Spencer added:

"But that's the way the powers that be—before George swung the stick—said it should be."

More Voted Down

The House voted down a move to delete Spencer's increased spending levels. The 53-48 vote, however, suggested slightly less enthusiasm for Spencer's plan than there had been a day earlier, when it was adopted by a 57-48 tally.

Waldron, former House Speaker and an attorney who considers parochial unconstitutional and the bill void because of questionable procedures taken when it passed the Senate, attempted to add an amendment requiring a referendum before any funds could be paid to sectarian schools.

Out Of Order Ruling

House Speaker William A. Ryan, D-Detroit, principal parochial advocate in the Legislature, ruled Waldron's amendment out of order on grounds that appropriations bills may not be subjected to voter review after legislative action.

Rep. Daniel Cooper, D-Oak Park, called for a vote directly on the parochial issue.

"If parochial is such a good thing, why can't we vote on it by itself," Cooper demanded.

"Why have such strategies and extrinsic reasons?"

Postponement Eyed

Rep. John P. Smeekens, R-Sherwood, a reluctant parochial supporter, proposed at one point that the House postpone further debate on both the school aid parochial issue and the companion tax measure until Wednesday, Aug. 5.

That is the day after the statewide primary in which every Democrat and Republican seeking re-election to the Legislature must run.

Israeli Planes Hit Cairo Area

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli planes flashed across the Suez Canal today to strike at an Egyptian missile base 18 miles west of Cairo and made it home safely, the military command announced.

It was the first time Israel has announced strikes that far inside Egypt in the Cairo area since the June 1967 war, informants said. Israeli planes last ranged near Cairo Feb. 17 when they struck at anti-aircraft missile sites around Helwan and Sahjur.

Anti-aircraft guns boomed in Cairo and black puffs were seen in the sky but no planes were sighted, said a dispatch from the Egyptian capital.

Air raid sirens were not heard in the center of Cairo, but sounded in the nearby suburb of Heliopolis.

The attack came only four hours after Egyptian planes streaked low across the waterway to strafe Israeli positions along the northern sector.

The Israeli military command said its forces suffered no casualties. Israeli and Egyptian raids across the canal are daily occurrences, and on Wednesday Israel struck Egyptian positions twice, while Egypt hit back once, just at sundown.

The Israelis also reported a group of Arab guerrillas attempted to cross into Israel from Lebanon during a mortar barrage but fled back across the border after a night watchman opened fire.

Troutt Appointed To School Board

In its special meeting held last night, the Escanaba Area School Board appointed Alfred H. Troutt to fill the vacancy left on the board by the resignation of Daniel Wellman.

Troutt, who lives in Ford River, is currently chief director of the Hiawatha National Forest. He is also president of the Ford River PTA, and has five children in the public schools.

Troutt returned to Michigan in the summer of 1967 from Missouri, his native state. He had previously worked as an assistant supervisor of the Ottawa National Forest with headquarters at Ironwood.

He is a 1957 graduate of the University of Missouri where he secured his degree in forestry.

Troutt and his wife, Linda, are the parents of five children: Gary, Nicholas, Treva, Kenneth and Elizabeth. He is an active member of the Society of American Foresters and a veteran of the U.S. Navy 1948-1952.

Ford Layoffs Reach 10,000

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. says it is laying off indefinitely this week an additional 3,000 employees, which will bring its number of persons laid off in the last two months to 10,000.

Ford, however, announced that its U. S. assembly plants would be closed only a total of 49 working days in March, compared with 66 in February.

Chrysler Corp. said it has begun recalling laid-off workers to its assembly plant in neighboring Windsor, Ont.

General Motors announced Monday it will lay off indefinitely 2,200 and a series of its plants will be closed from two days to a week in March.

All the Big Three automakers have been hit by sagging new car sales this year. Sales were down 18.8 per cent in the middle 10 days of this month, compared with the same period last February. Sales for the year to Feb. 20 totaled 853,416, or 16.6 per cent, from 1969's 1,023,042 over the same span.

Chrysler said it was recalling workers at Windsor to raise the production of compact Dodge Darts and Plymouth Valiants from 880 to 960 cars daily.

Chrysler, however, refused to say how many of 1,100 laid off at Windsor over the last three months are being recalled. When layoffs began, a spokesman said the daily production rate was 960 cars.

Chrysler has been worst hit among the major automakers by sagging sales and currently has 9,245 production workers laid off at U.S. plants. It recalled 100 last week to its Twinsburg, Ohio, stamping plant.

Three players who performed for the Tigers in 1969 were born in Detroit. They were Bill Freehan, Gary Taylor and Tom Tresh.

Sun To Darken March 7:

Scientists Await Eclipse

The midday sun will disappear and the shadow of the moon will darken the Earth March 7 in what will be the most-studied solar eclipse in history.

Thousands of astronomers and other scientists will train shielded telescopes and cameras skyward. The eclipse will streak a shadow path 100 miles wide across southern Mexico, the Gulf, northern Florida, eastern Georgia and the Carolinas, and the tip of Virginia before heading out to sea, touching Nantucket Island on the way.

It will be the last solar eclipse visible along the Eastern Seaboard this century, although eclipses of the sun will cross from Alaska to Labrador in 1972 and across the northwestern United States in 1979.

Leader of a group traveling to Mexico in hopes of best viewing conditions is Dr. Donald H. Menzel of the Smithsonian Astro-physical Observatory, perhaps the world's most experienced eclipse observer.

His team is co-sponsored by the National Geographic Society, the Harvard College Observatory, and the Smithsonian observatory.

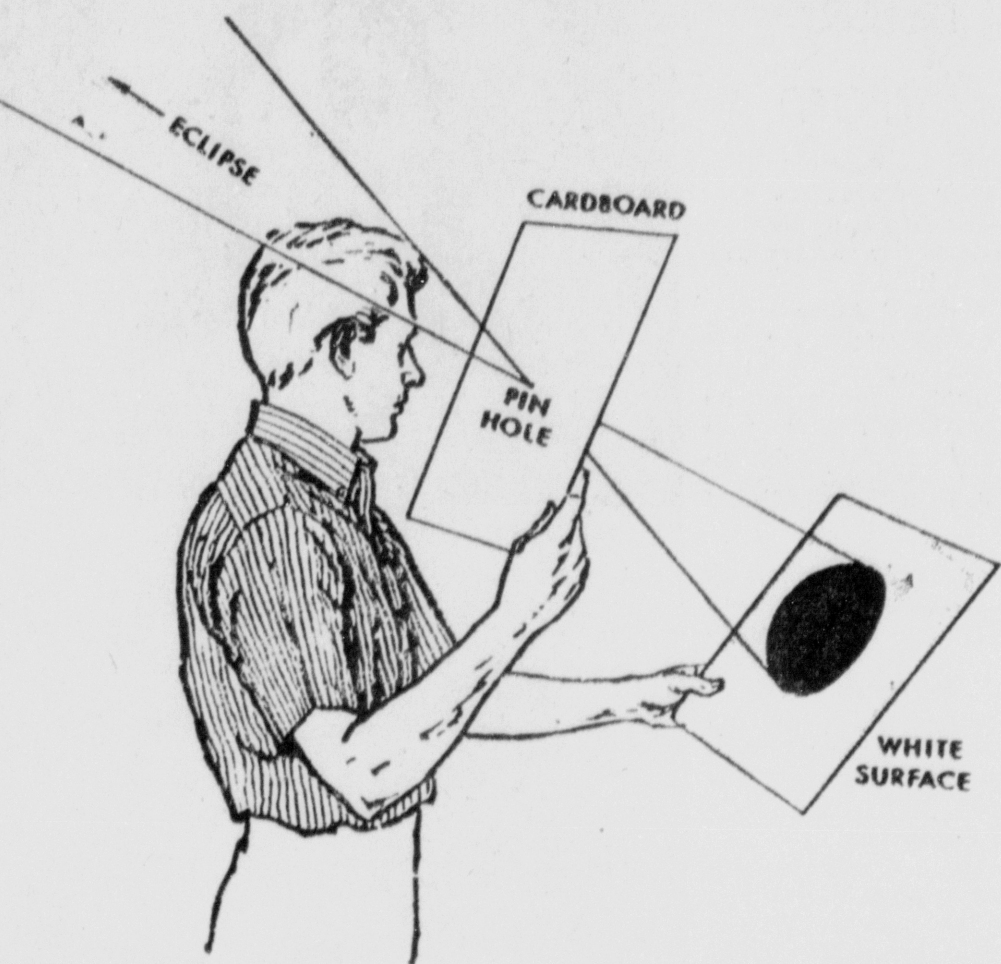

Using a specially designed spectrograph, Dr. Menzel hopes to record new details of the corona, the ghostlike halo that may extend a million miles or more beyond the sun, but which can only be seen when the moon obscures the sun's overpowering brightness.

More rockets and aircraft than ever before will be used by observers of this eclipse. For the first time, a satellite will televise the view of the moon's shadow as it races across Earth at 1,500 miles an hour.

The National Geographic Society will be following a tradition of eclipse-watching that goes back to May 28, 1900, when Norfolk, Virginia, as in 1970, was a prime viewing site.

Some 250 members of the society, led by the inventor of the telephone, Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, arrived for the occasion aboard a steamer on a three-day field trip from Washington. President William McKinley sailed in for a look aboard a Navy ship.

From its first scientific effort at eclipse photography that day — "three plates were successfully exposed" — the society has recorded most of the repeat performances of this spectacular phenomenon.

THE NATIONAL SOCIETY for the Prevention of Blindness warns that the only recommended safe way to view the March 7 eclipse of the sun is indirectly: Take two pieces of white cardboard, make a pinhole in one; and with the sun at your back focus the eclipse through the pinhole board onto the second board. The size of the image can be changed by altering the distance between cardboards. Older children and adults can use binoculars or a telescope as the projector, replacing the pinhole cardboard — with the instrument pointing again over the shoulder toward the sun. Never look at the eclipse through the pinhole or through the binoculars or telescope.

Eclipse Is Fascinating... But Could Cause Blindness

An eclipse of the sun is a fascinating . . . but dangerous sight, warns the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Due Saturday, March 7, is a total eclipse of the sun, with the southeastern part of the United States in the path of the total eclipse, and all other parts of the country experiencing various degrees of partial eclipse.

"There is no safe way to view the eclipse directly," said Dr. Wilfred D. David, executive director of the Society. "Although any eclipse poses an eye hazard, the danger of the March 7 eclipse is multiplied — simply because of its availability."

It is estimated that the path the eclipse will take makes it "available" to more people than any other in history. Added to this, said Dr. David is the fact that the eclipse will be on a Saturday, and at approximately mid-day, further increasing the opportunity for eclipse-watching.

'Comfortable' Peril
The eye-damaging hazard of an eclipse, said the society, is due to the fact that the sun can be looked at "comfortably." Normally the dazzling visible rays prevent anyone from looking directly at the sun. And although these rays are blocked during an eclipse, the invisible, dangerous infra-red rays continue to be emitted.

Infra-red rays can cause damaging burns to the eye's retina, the delicate back inner layer of the eye which transmits images to the brain. The retina is not sensitive to pain, so a retinal burn is not "felt."

THE PATH OF TOTALITY for the eclipse of the sun March 7 is marked on this map of the eastern United States. All of the country will experience a partial eclipse with the magnitude of sun blockage decreasing with the distance from the path of the total phase. The portion of the sun blocked out at maximum eclipse will be 72 per cent in St. Louis, for example, and 35 per cent in Los Angeles.

But retinal burns are incurable, and produce a blind spot in the victim's field of vision — in the vital small area used for reading and all "fine" seeing.

Safe Viewing
A safe, indirect method of viewing the eclipse, recommended by the society, is a simple projection device which anyone can make: Two pieces of white cardboard are all that is needed. A Pinhole or pencil hole in the top cardboard serves to project and focus the image of the eclipse on the second cardboard. (See illustration.)

"The public must be made aware that so-called protective devices, such as sunglasses, smoked glass of film negatives, do not protect the eyes from infra-red rays," said Dr. David. An article in the "British Journal of Ophthalmology," reporting on eye-damage cases following the 1966 partial eclipse of the sun, said such devices "may even facilitate injury by prolonging the time of exposure."

The last total eclipse of the sun observable in the U.S. was in 1963; and was total only in Maine and parts of Alaska, although all parts of the country experienced partial eclipse. In a survey by the Society, ophthalmologists reported 247 cases of visual damage from direct observation of that eclipse.

SYDNEY (AP) — Sydney-sider Jim Leacock chose his 90th birthday to launch a new political party, the Australasian Interdependent Movement. ### Church Supper, Film Program Slated Sunday

The Evangelical Covenant Church of Gladstone will hold its monthly family potluck supper Sunday beginning at 6 p.m. Following the supper, at 7 p.m., a program including the presentation of Trailblazer awards and the film "A New Thing," will be presented.

The film, produced by Faith at Work, presents in capsule version, the church's mission in today's society both in the city and rural countryside areas. The film explores some of the new and exciting things happening as Christians of all denominations discover what it means to share Christ's love in the world.

Pastor Kent Palmquist extends an invitation to all in the community to attend this activity.

Mobile Families Can Raise Price Of Homes Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Population mobility can add to the cost of buying a used house.

The greater the mobility, the more houses change hands. Each time a house is sold, the owner tries to get not only the market value of the house, but also his selling cost.

Selling costs usually include at least the 6 per cent commission charged by a real estate broker. In today's tight money market, it can also include perhaps eight points the seller must pay a lender in order to induce it to take a mortgage from the buyer. Each point equals 1 per cent of the mortgage.

Harold Tolar, president of the Anaheim, Calif., Board of Realtors, said: "A 12-year-old house in this area may have been sold three or four times, with new financing each time. You have an $800 to $1,000 annual cost appreciation for the house, and then add on the sales costs of about 6 per cent each time. Then add 16 per cent for points and sales to sell it now, and the price is probably too high to meet an FHA or VA appraisal."

Boy Scout Benefit Supper March 26

Plans for the Rotary Club pancake supper for the benefit of Cub and Boy Scouts are proceeding and will be held March 16.

Men of the Rotary Club will donate their time and effort for this worthy cause with scouts assisting. All proceeds will go to the local scouts.

A special rate has been established for pre-school children in an effort to have families attend this supper at the James T. Jones cafeteria from 5 to 8 p.m.

Briefly Told

The Gladstone Senior Citizens Club will hold a social meeting Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the Senior Citizens Room at the city hall.

Brownie Troops Collect 4,652 'Kidney' Coupons

A total of 4,652 Betty Crocker coupons collected by girls of Brownie Troops 70 and 58 of Gladstone has been turned over to the Upper Peninsula Chapter of the Michigan Kidney Foundation in its campaign to collect 600,000 coupons for a kidney machine.

Coupons were collected in a three week contest between the troops which was won by Troop 70 by about 315 coupons.

"We did this as a service project," said Mrs. James Featherston, troop leader. Twenty-four girls were involved.

The collection project, she said, is continuing with boxes in Gladstone schools. Adult leaders also will pick up the coupons for persons unable to bring them to the drop boxes.

Persons with coupons to donate who wish them to be picked up may call Mrs. Featherston, 425-8161; Mrs. Adolph Girard, 425-5361; Mrs. Jack Sepic, 428-9847, or Mrs. Willard Holup, 425-3721.

Leroux Cowen Bride Of Stephen C. Strom

Leroux K. Cowen and Stephen Carl Strom both of Gladstone exchanged wedding vows Saturday, Feb. 21 during a double ring ceremony performed at the First Lutheran Church of Gladstone.

Officiating at the nuptials at 4 p. m. was the Rev. Reuben Carlson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Cowen, 1121 Dakota, Gladstone and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Strom, 1523 Montana, Gladstone.

Maid of honor for her sister was Paula Cowen of Gladstone and bridesmaid was Mrs. Cynthia Cowen, Houghton, sister-in-law of the bride.

Serving as best man for his brother was Todd Strom of Gladstone and groomsmen was Stephen Cowen, Houghton, the bride's brother. Seating the guests were Blake Cowen of Gladstone and David Strom also of Gladstone.

Lace, Taffeta

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length Empire gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, Bishop's sleeves and a chapel length train.

A Mantilla type illusion veil edged with Chantilly lace and a Juliet cap of illusion completed her attire and she carried an arrangement of orchids mounted on a lace fan.

Apricot Crepe

The bridal aides were attired in floor length frocks of apricot crepe with moss green line lace accenting the waistline and styled with stand-up collars and long puffed sleeves.

Mothers' Attire

Mrs. Cowen wore for her daughter's wedding a long sleeved gold crepe dress with silver and gold metallic trim at the neckline and silver accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a long sleeved, A-line dress of lime green bonded wool with coordinating accessories. Both mothers were presented corsages to complement their attire.

Reception

The reception was held in the church fellowship room following the ceremony. The newlyweds will make their home in Gladstone.

The bride is a 1968 graduate of Gladstone High School and will graduate from Bay de Noc College this spring. Her fiancé is also a 1968 graduate of Gladstone High School and is attending Bay de Noc College. He is also employed by Eaton, Yale and Towne of Gladstone.

Job Hunt Only Problem For Former Priest, Wife

ROME (AP) — "We were made for each other." That was what Giovanna Calevar, a wealthy Roman woman of 38, had to say about her fiancé just before they were married about a year ago.

He did indeed seem a good prospect — Healthy, tanned, with wavy black hair hardly flecked with gray and an easy smile that showed ivory white teeth and bespoke a cheerful disposition.

There was only one problem. The man was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Giovanni Musante, 50, a prelate in the household of Pope Paul VI.

Blow To Pontiff

The Musante defection and wedding must have been a blow for the Pontiff. After his many exhortations to priests to remain true to their vow of celibacy and his efforts to shut off discussions of a married priesthood, a priest right in the papal household left his calling to marry.

Former Msgr. Musante and his wife appear to be doing fine now, enjoying each other's company and their sumptuous apartment in one of the better residential quarters on Monte Mario, a hill overlooking Rome.

Musante's only complaint: the notoriety of his case has kept him from finding a decent job. "If I hadn't had so much publicity," he said in an interview, "I would have found work."

Unlike the United States, Italy has no employment agencies specializing in getting jobs for former priests.

Wanted A Child

When Musante first announced that he was leaving to marry, he said he had an overriding desire to "father a child."

However, when asked about a prospective child, Mrs. Musante demurred. "I can neither confirm nor deny it," she said, "because these are things that you don't talk about to anyone."

The Musantes sat close together on a rich brown sofa during the interview, he holding his wife's hands on her lap. Every so often, she fondled the back of his neck.

Protest against priestly celibacy, said Musante, is less vocal in Italy than in many other countries because "about half the priests in Italy are over 60 years old, and after a certain age, certain problems don't count anymore."

Easier Now

Getting into more general terms, he said "there is an undeniable evolution" toward optional celibacy. He noted that it was getting easier for priests to obtain release from their vows and enter the lay state, then added:

Of those priests who do follow the celibacy rule because they believe in it, he said: "These are few, these are rare."

The rule of mandatory celibacy for priests in the Latin (Western) Rite is usually dated from the fourth century.

"While the West adopted a rigid law," said the former monsignor, "The East kept the original law."

Before the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council, Musante said, there was much less outspoken dissent over the celibacy rule. But, he added, the dissent "simply wasn't shown. There's always fire under the ashes, and in the new times, it spread."

Write Books

The former aide to Pope Paul also said he had finished 1,000 handwritten pages of a book about "my situation," although he did not yet have a publisher.

He also is taking courses at the nearby University of Urbino toward a degree in civil law, which he hopes to obtain in another two years. Musante's degree in canon law from the Lateran University in Rome has reduced the time needed for a civil degree.

Upon graduation he hopes to practice law in Rome.

"But not because we need money," put in his wife. "We don't lack for anything."

Only Problem

Musante declared he was happy with marriage and his new life and happy that the job hunt was "the only problem we have."

"Yes," echoed Mrs. Musante, smiling, "the only problem."

Pill Scare May Cause Unwanted Pregnancies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of Planned Parenthood, one of the nation's most influential birth control groups, said today pregnancy accounts for 15 times more deaths among young women than are suspected from oral contraceptives.

Besides reducing the risk of death, Dr. Alan F. Guttmacher told a Senate subcommittee in prepared testimony, birth control pills are the most effective safeguard against "one of the gravest socio-medical illnesses — unwanted pregnancy."

Women Alarmed

Dr. Guttmacher, whose organization counsels 350,000 women a year in this country, said he appeared in hopes of "stemming unwarranted and dangerous alarm" he said was caused by earlier testimony before the monopoly subcommittee, headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

Earlier sessions have spotlighted scores of suspected side effects which Guttmacher reviewed and largely rejected as unproven or not serious.

Dr. Guttmacher did say it had been indisputably proven that women on the pill are more prone to fatal blood clots.

Clots Vs. Pregnancy

But he said statistics show 22.8 of every 100,000 healthy married women age 20-34 would die as a result of pregnancy compared with 1.5 who would die from a fatal clot associated with the pill.

Among women 35-44, 57.6 would die per 100,000 from pregnancy while 3.9 succumbed of a fatal clot, he stated.

Calling unwanted pregnancy a "condition tragically common in the U.S.," Dr. Guttmacher issued a barrage of statistics showing that:

Abortions

—Between 200,000 and one million illegal abortions are performed a year in the United States with a death rate estimated at 100 per 100,000.

—About 300,000 illegitimate children are born annually in the United States.

—At least one in six U.S. brides are pregnant when married with half of these pregnancies occurring while the couple are teenagers.

Unwanted Children

—About 750,000 children are born each year who are unwanted at the time of conception and destined to be "unloved, neglected and abandoned."

The pill, said Dr. Guttmacher, is also "by far the best contraceptive for sexually active adolescents."

He said if current national trends continue, some 70,000 girls under 18 will bear illegitimate children this year.

But, he added, "if the pill scare continues unabated, I fear that figure will become a gross underestimate."

Milliken In Driver's Seat, Romney Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Housing secretary George Romney assured Michigan Republicans Wednesday that Gov. William Milliken is "the undisputed and unchallenged" leader of their party.

The question of party leadership arose Saturday when Milliken announced his endorsement of former Gov. Romney's wife, Lenore, as the party's preferred Senate candidate against Democrat Philip A. Hart.

After Milliken's endorsement of Mrs. Romney, reports arose that Romney had taken command of the Michigan GOP to forward the ambitions of his wife.

Wednesday's statement, issued after Milliken met with Romney in Washington, was apparently intended to refute those reports.

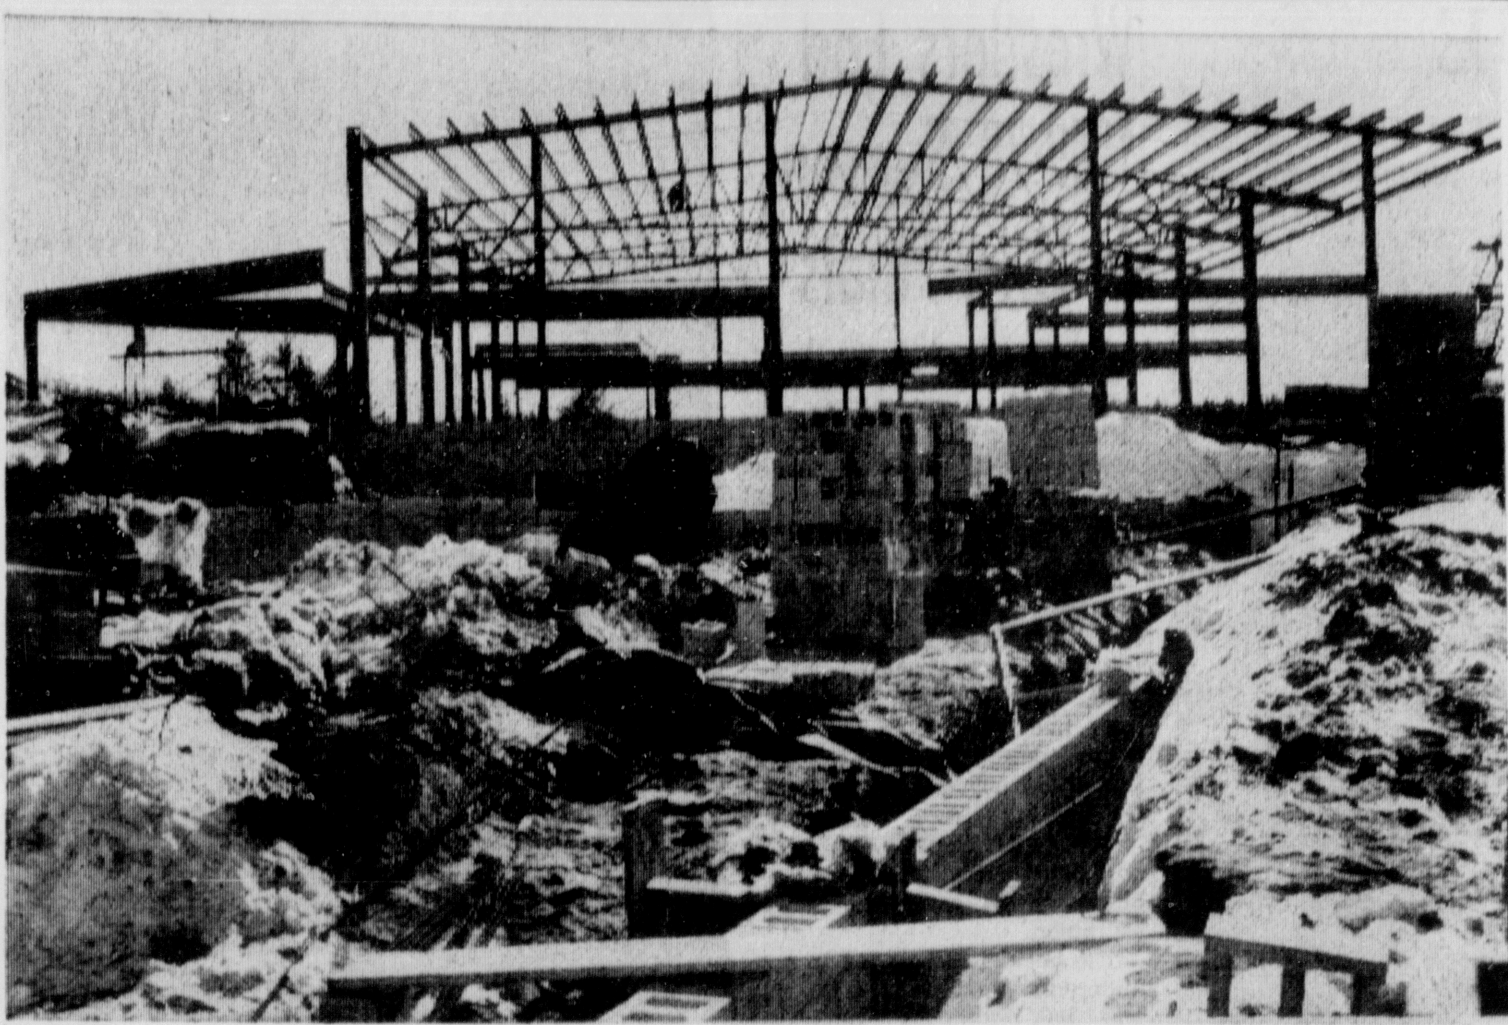

In addition to declaring his loyalty to Milliken, Romney both pledged not to run for the Senate himself, and insisted that his wife would be entirely independent in her race for the Senate.

"Lenore Romney's decision to become a candidate was made by her," Romney said. "her campaign for the Senate will be her own campaign."

As Romney prepared his statement, Milliken called a third and final "consensus" meeting of Republicans for March 7.

He said he expected "to have Lenore Romney confirmed as the preferred candidate" with the necessary 75 per cent of the delegate votes.

At the party leadership conference last Saturday, Mrs. Romney failed to receive the necessary votes, even with Milliken's support.

house. Most of the steelwork on the main clubhouse building has been completed and workmen have started masonry work on the walls. The clubhouse will open this spring for the first season of golf on the new 18-hole course. (Daily Press Photos)

Smith Elected By Lake Bluff

Matt Smith of Escanaba, who has spearheaded the development of Lake Bluff Estates and Lake Bluff Country Club on the bluff between Escanaba and Gladstone, has been elected the first president of the new country club.

Other officers elected to the Board of Directors at its initial meeting were Paul Snyder of Escanaba, vice president, and James Schultz, also of Escanaba, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the Board of Directors are:

Three-year terms — Matt Smith, Paul Snyder, John Manning; two-year terms — O. C. Christiansen, Irving Olsen, Nicholas Chapek; One-year terms — George Douglas, John Greene and A. C. Baudek.

A special stockholders meeting has been called for 7:15 p. m. Monday, March 9, at the Terrace to consider by-laws for the club. Richard Drennan, general manager - golf professional, and Roy Ness, general building contractor, will attend the meeting to brief stockholders on clubhouse and golf course progress.

Claims Benefits From Chemicals Outweigh Dangers

EAST LANSING (AP) — The benefits of some harmful chemical compounds far outweigh their dangers, an official of the Federal Food and Drug Administration said today.

"Man can no longer enjoy the luxury of being able to avoid all those things that are toxic to his environment," said Dr. Dale R. Lindsay, associate commissioner of science for the FDA.

His remarks were prepared for a pesticide conference which began a three-day run at Michigan State University Thursday.

Lindsay said most research with pesticides involves use of heavy doses on sensitive animals. In this type of situation, he said, scientists can almost always show detrimental effects. But this does not mean the compounds always are going to be detrimental to man, Lindsay said.

"There are no toxic chemicals," he said, "just toxic uses of them. Even table salt can kill you, if you use too much of it."

He called for large-scale experiments to evaluate risk-benefit relationships of potentially harmful compounds.

He said the problem has "more significance to man than his ability to explore space, and I doubt that it will cost nearly as much."

Brokerage Houses Seen As Targets Of Investigators

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Some time during the year, as early as this spring perhaps, investors will be telling their Wall Street brokerage houses a thing or two, and the brokers are going to have to take it in public.

It could be embarrassing. These are the people, you know, who have been telling the world all about other companies. But seldom have they solicited other opinions on how to manage their own affairs.

Mutual Secret Kept

For many years they operated as partnerships, and partners might fight among each other but they keep their mutual secrets, it being in the interest of their common goals, which partnership implies.

Now they need money—very badly. And so, Homburg in hand, they will be coming to the public in search of it. They will be, in the language of their business, going public. This is the year of the Wall Street cotillion; at least 12 firms are expected to "come out" public capital.

Shares Offered

When a company goes public it offers its shares to outsiders. It invites those outsiders to put up their money, and with any investment there always comes an opinion, unsolicited or not.

For example, there is a thing called the price-earnings ratio. A young, aggressive company in a growing industry might have a ratio as high as 60 or more, because people believe its future is good. IBM, Polaroid, Xerox, and Control Data have had them.

GM Ratio Is 11

An older company with a stodgy image won't do nearly as well. General Motors, which is the world's mightiest corporation, has a P-E of only 11.

What kind of a P-E will investors put on the brokerage houses that now intend to go public?

Last year, when there was widespread speculation as to what sort of an opinion the public would have, some analysts talked about P-E ratios of 20 or 30 to 1. That was last year.

Since then brokerage firms have reported their profits—or more correctly in some cases, their losses.

Some brokers, in fact, might just as well forget any ideas of going public for the moment. In order to sell shares you have to give the public information, and the less said about the past of some firms the better.

Management? Good management, so many brokers have told investors, is the clearest indication of a company's future. "Look at the men at the helm," they said, "and we'll tell you its direction."

Question Unanswerable

The question before the Street now is how well its own management will stand up to the criterion it taught millions of investors. How, for example, will investors evaluate the record-keeping mess in the back offices?

Still other fascinating questions:

Assuming they go public, what will Merrill Lynch think of Paine Weber, and how highly, or lowly, will duPont rate Bache? Will they be able to recommend each other? Or, for the sake of good taste, must they remain silent.

How will partners who for years listened to nothing but their inner voices take to the notion of stockholders telling them what to do?

No More Secrets

Despite these imponderables, and Wall Street traditionally has prided itself on being able to make up its mind—right or wrong—brokers must go before the public and undergo public scrutiny. No more big secrets.

The simple fact is that firms need additional permanent capital to finance long-range projects that require millions of dollars for people, computers and automation—and even to rectify errors of the past.

MSU Coed Will Receive Award As 'Volunteer'

EAST LANSING (AP)—Mary Lou Cantrill, a Michigan State University senior from Grand Rapids, is to receive the first Michigan Association of Student Volunteers outstanding volunteer award this weekend in her hometown. Gov. William Milliken is to present the award during the 7th annual Governors Conference on Student Volunteerism in Grand Rapids. The citation recognizes Miss Cantrill's activity as reflecting "the enthusiasm and exuberance typical of the volunteer movement in the State of Michigan." Miss Cantrill's work at MSU began in 1967 through Students for Community Organization Through Panhellenic Effort, where she helped direct recreation programs.

MANISTIQUE

THE IMOGENE HERBERT Historical Museum as seen in a sketch by local artist Mrs. John Orr. The name change of the former Post House Museum was recently made by the Museum board of directors and the County Historical Society.

Imogene Herbert Cited; Name Museum After Her

The Post House Museum will hereafter be known as the Imogene Herbert Historical Museum.

The name change was approved at a recent meeting of the Museum board of directors and officers of the Schoolcraft County Historical Society.

"In view of Mrs. Herbert's devotion to the museum and the limitless time, effort and resources she has contributed to the maintenance of the building, its contents and records, it is highly appropriate that the museum should bear her name," the directors noted.

Mrs. Herbert was one of the people who conceived and worked for establishment of a historical museum to house historical records and relics of Schoolcraft County. The former Post House, named in honor of the late Mrs. Jennie Putnam's mother, became the repository in 1961 and Mrs. Herbert was named curator, a position she still holds. During her years as curator, she has been almost entirely responsible for its organization. Many valuable records — the history of the county, early families and industries — have been assembled under her direction.

The furniture and decor of the museum is of the late Victorian period. The house was recently moved to a new location on the lawn of the Chamber of commerce building, the old water tower site, from its original spot in the 100 block of S. Cedar St.

Mrs. A. F. Hall is chairman of the museum board of trustees with Mrs. Ludwig Hough, secretary; John Orr and Mrs. Russell Watson, directors; Harold Cockram, Edwin Wuehle and Robert Noe, ex-officio.

Historical Society officers include Harold Cockram, president; Mrs. John Matthews, secretary; Mrs. Muriel Cookson, treasurer.

Small Loans Bill 'Death' Predicted

LANSING (AP) — The small loans bill that Senate backers accuse opponents of turning into "a political football" was expected to be tossed out of the game for the year today.

Backers moved to send the bill back to committee at least until after the fall elections.

Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, a prime force behind the measure, said Wednesday that he doubted there would be further action this year on the bill hiking the small loan ceiling from $1,000 to $3,500.

Lockwood said opponents had talked the bill into "a campaign issue."

At the same time, Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, released a letter from Vincent W. Pier-sante, chief investigator for the Attorney General's Organized Crime Unit.

The letter—requested by Levin, who is interested in the Democratic nomination for governor this year—refuted claims that raising the ceiling could help curtail loan shark business in Michigan.

Wrestlers End 1969-70 Season In U.P. Finals

Wrestling teams in the Upper Peninsula will close out the 1969-70 season this Friday and Saturday in the U. P. Finals, which will be held at Marquette in the gymnasium of Northern Michigan University's C. B. Hedgecock Fieldhouse.

Iron Mountain and Ishpeming have been picked as the early favorites to reign over the 13-team field, while Escanaba, Munising and Gladstone have been tabbed as the dark horses. Other schools entered in the tourney are Holy Name, Ewen-Trout Creek, Ironwood, Kingsford, Marquette, Rudyard and Sault Ste. Marie. Marquette is the defending U. P. champion.

The event is scheduled to get underway Friday at 6 p. m. with the preliminary matches. The semifinals are scheduled to get underway at 1 p. m. Saturday and wrestle-backs will follow at 2 p. m. Consolation finals have been slated Saturday evening at 7 and the championship finals will be held at 8.

Four referees, Gene Erslund of Menominee, Bob Bowman of Escanaba, George Carageorge of Marquette and Vern Julian of Michigan Tech, will officiate the tourney.

Local wrestlers expected to do well in the event are Duane Scheuren of Escanaba (19-1, 185; Dale Ford of Escanaba (18-2), 123; Vern VanDrese of Escanaba (17-3), 155; Mike Thompson of Escanaba (14-6), 130; Jim DeGrand of Holy Name (17-1), 165; Bill Beauvais of Holy Name (14-4), 145; Gary Allsworth of Gladstone (14-0-1), 115; Bob DeGrand of Gladstone (16-0), heavyweight and Randy Smith of Gladstone (12-3-1), 155.

Disputed Goal Gives Rangers 2-1 Victory

By The Associated Press
The New York Rangers take the National Hockey League's East Division lead into Boston tonight with a little bit of breathing room against the challenging Bruins.

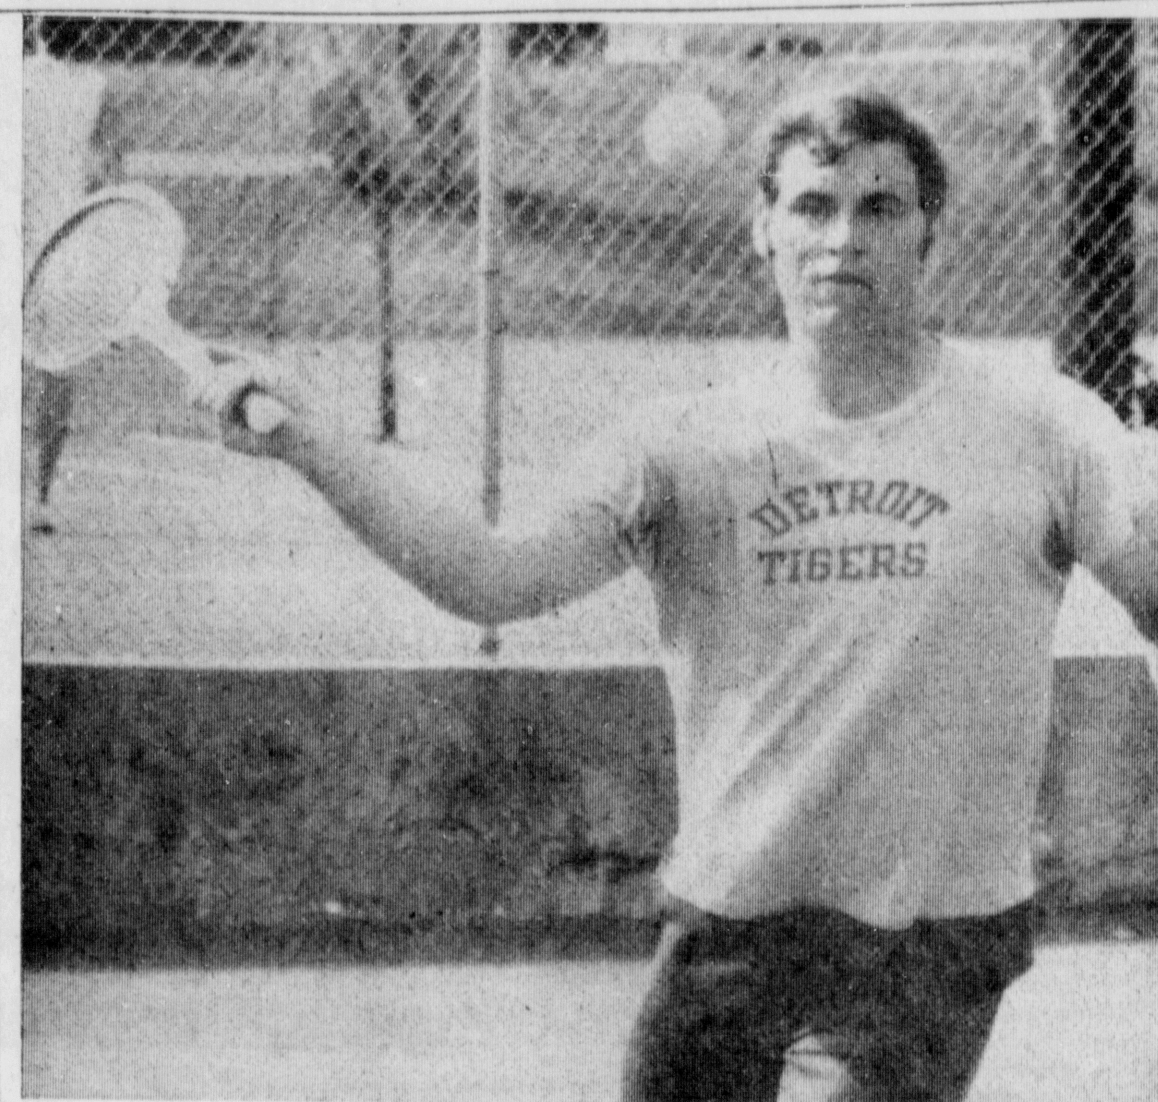

But the guy who provided that breathing room—veteran Donnie Marshall—won't be there. Instead, Marshall will spend the day in New York's Lenox Hill Hospital with a possible separation of his left shoulder.

It was Marshall's disputed second period goal that gave the Rangers a 2-1 decision over St. Louis Wednesday night, opening a four-point bulge for New York in the east race over idle Boston.

Montreal remained five points behind by knocking off Pittsburgh 3-2 while Toronto tripped Oakland 4-1 and Minnesota tied Los Angeles 3-3 in other games.

The Rangers were leading 1-0 on defenseman Arnie Brown's 13th goal of the season when Marshall raced into the St. Louis zone and lifted a high shot at the net and let goalie Jacques Plante take it from there.

Gambling Not One Of My Habits: Dean

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Former pitching great Jerome "Dizzy" Dean told "a little boy named David" and everyone else Wednesday that he had "done a few foolish things" in his life, but had never been involved in big-time gambling.

In a brief news conference at a hotel suite, Dean acknowledged that he had placed bets for a friend. He said he at first did not realize he was doing anything wrong, and "never received one dime for it, not one penny."

Dean began by shaking hands with all of the reporters jammed into the room. Ten minutes later he made an abrupt and tearful departure, avoiding questions.

Dean, former 30-game winner with the St. Louis Cardinals, was one of six men named as coconspirators, but not indicted, by a federal grand jury in Detroit. Ten others were indicted for alleged violations of federal gambling laws.

Dean, speaking without notes, told of receiving a letter from a boy named David whose father was his fan. He said the boy wrote that "he hoped I wasn't involved too much in this gambling."

"And, David, I'm going to say to you, son, I've done a few foolish things in my life and I hope that you never do. But I'll assure you of one thing: I have nothing to do with big-time gambling — never did, and never will."

Dean said he became involved in the gambling investigation "through a friend who asked me to make wagers for him." Dean said he placed the bets because "I was told there was no harm in it."

"Later on I was told it was the wrong thing to do," Dean said. "And I stopped it, long before this whole thing broke . . ."

Dean was flanked by his wife and attorney Patrick Regan during his brief appearance. His sudden departure, saying,

"That's all I've got to say right now," left reporters' questions unasked.

Another of the coconspirators named was Dean's nephew, Paul Dean, Jr. Regan explained that Paul was involved because "in Diz' absence, Paul would receive telephone calls and tell Diz what the friends wanted." Regan insisted the involvement "was very, very minor."

Regan refused to identify the friend for whom Dean placed bets. He said Dean would "be a witness, if needed," at any trials.

However, the indictment returned in Detroit alleged that Dean and his nephew placed bets in behalf of Howard Sober, 74, a wealthy Lansing, Mich., trucking executive. The indictment alleged the Deans made the bets with three Biloxi, Miss., men who are among the 10 defendants.

Regan added there was no connection between Dean and the recent suspension from baseball of suspended Detroit Tigers pitcher Denny McLain, who testified before the federal grand jury a week ago. In Detroit, U.S. Attorney James Brickley has said the grand jury appearance by McLain was a "separate matter" and was not related to the charges against the 10.

The Tiger pitcher was suspended last Thursday pending an investigation by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who said the action was taken because of McLain's "involvement in 1967 bookmaking activities."

Unheralded Duke Registers Upset

By The Associated Press
Duke's Blue Devils would love to upset the Appalachians in next week's Atlantic Coast Conference championship basketball tournament at Charlotte against nationally ranked South Carolina, North Carolina and N.C. State.

The unranked Blue Devils stamped themselves as the tourney dark horse by upsetting the 14th-ranked N.C. State Wolfpack Wednesday night 71-69 on free throws by Don Blackman and Dick Devenzio in the last 30 seconds.

The Blue Devils did it on the road, too. Not only that, but they didn't collapse after blowing an 18-point lead at 35-17 and falling behind by four points midway of the second half.

Third-ranked St. Bonaventure turned back Canisius 91-68 at Olean and 19th-ranked North Carolina routed Virginia Tech 98-70 at Chapel Hill in other games involving teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty.

Bowling Green shaded Western Michigan 75-74 at home to keep alive its hopes of tying Ohio U. for the Mid-American Conference title.

Ohio U. whacked Chicago Loyola 93-70, Rhode Island downed Providence 81-73, Niagara took Syracuse 81-83, North Texas beat St. Louis 86-82, West Virginia got by Maryland 83-78 and Duquesne walloped Xavier of Ohio 105-63.

Charlie Scott of North Carolina closed out his home court career for the Tar Heels by tossing in 28 points and grabbing 13 rebounds against Virginia Tech. He received a standing ovation from the crowd in the closing minutes.

Big Bob Lanier led NCAA-bound St. Bonaventure to its eighth straight victory with 23 points against Canisius although he sat out most of the game because of foul trouble.

Niagara, also NCAA-bound, closed its home season by opening a 15-point lead and withstanding a Syracuse rally. Calvin Murphy of Niagara fouled out with about two minutes left after scoring 24 points. Jim Penix's two free throws with nine seconds to play gave Bowling green a 75-72 lead and offset Leroy Dixon's basket for Western Michigan as the buzzer sounded.

John Fultz scored 26 points for Rhode Island as the Rams beat Providence twice in the same season for the first time in 18 years.

Lehigh qualified for the Middle-Atlantic Conference playoffs on Friday by shading Lafayette 86-83 in a special playoff game at Allentown, Pa.

Louisville warmed up for its crucial MVC game with Drake Saturday by crushing Georgetown, Ky. 107-85 behind Mike Grosso's career high of 33 points.

Girl Scouts Observe 'Founders' Birthday

"Thinking Day," marking the birthday of the founders of Scouting, Lord and Lady Baden-Powell of Great Britain, was observed in special ceremonies during a Tuesday night meeting of Lincoln School Junior Girl Scout Troop 82.

A flag ceremony opened the observance under the direction of Polly Jackson, scout-in-charge. Gail Pistulka, Jane Berger, Kristen Johnson, Carla Roemer, Robin Marchand, Jenette Morton, Julie Lambert, Debbie Anderson, Kandace

Kane, Patti Olesak and Donna Lenzi presented a "Friendship" candle-light ceremony.

Sign of the Arrow scouts Patti Olesak, Gail Pistulka and Kristen Johnson received special recognition for their achievements. Mrs. William Pistulka told the girls about the annual cookie sale coming in March and passed out bulletins.

The girls of Patrol One were in charge of refreshments.

Special guests included Miss LaVerne Korman, Peninsula Waters Council field director, Escanaba; Mrs. Earl Williamson, local Service Unit chairman plus Troop 82 committee mothers, Mrs. Jack Roemer, Mrs. William Olesak, Mrs. Joseph Jackson and Mrs. Pistulka.

Mrs. Fred Berger is troop leader and Mrs. Earl Johnson is assistant leader.

Peninsula Preps Close 1969-70 Cage Campaign

By MIKE UTT
It seems such a short time ago that the 1969-70 basketball season in the Upper Peninsula began, but everything will come to an end as far as regular season play goes this weekend before the teams begin tournament play next week.

The big clash between Escanaba and Menominee at the Escanaba Area High School gym on Friday night for the Great Northern Conference championship will be the key game among ten contests involving area quintos over the weekend. Other Friday night games find Holy Name at Iron Mountain, Soo at Gladstone, Marquette at Manistique, Bark River at Rapid River, Big Bay de Noc at Trenary, Champion at Powers, Carney at Republic and National Mine at Hermansville, while Rock will travel to Perkins Saturday night.

Both Escanaba and Menominee will go into their big game on Friday with 7-2 records in conference play. The winner of the game will win the Great Northern title outright, while the loser can do no worse than finish in a second place tie, and could possibly hold the runner-up spot by itself if Holy Name should lose to Iron Mountain. The game will get underway at 8:15.

Good Scorers
In an earlier meeting between the two schools this season at Menominee, the Maroons recorded a 63-61 victory, but since then the Eskymos have lost only three times while winning eight. Neither team is as strong as they have been in past seasons, but both have the ability to score points quickly. Tom Kangas, the Eskymos' 6 foot 4 inch junior center, will be one of the top attractions in the game, as he has a chance to wrap up three individual titles in the Great Northern Conference. Kangas now leads the league in scoring, field goal percentage and rebounding.

Six seniors will be playing their final game before the hometown fans in an Eskymo uniform. Three of them, Bill Dubord, Gene Timmer and Bob Gauthier, will be starters in the Eskymo lineup along with Kangas and Mike Cousineau, while Dennis O'Connell, Bob Thompson and Bob Stacey will be waiting on the bench hoping to contribute in a reserve role.

Need Victory
Holy Name was in the thick of the Great Northern Conference title race until dropping a 54-49 decision at Menominee last Friday, and now the Crusaders must come up with a victory at Iron Mountain to assure themselves of a second place finish in the league standings.

Friday night's game will also mark the final regular season appearances of Holy Name seniors Bob McGinn, Dan Young and Steve Kleiman, all of whom are starters along with sophomore Bill Skradski and junior Joe Harvey. Skradski leads the Crusaders in the scoring department this season with 253 points.

Gladstone was eliminated from title contention in the Great Lakes Conference when it lost to Negaunee Tuesday night by a 61-58 margin, but the Braves still have a shot at the runnerup spot if Ishpeming fails to get by Newberry.

Ace Performer
Gladstone will take an 8-8 record into the game against Soo and will rely on the all-around ability of senior Cliff Young to bring it a victory. Young has been one of the top performers in the U. P. all season, scoring a total of 368 points in 16 appearances. Other Gladstone starters will probably be Wayne Marshall and Lynn Apelgren at the guards, Jerry Erickson at the other forward and Bill Murphy at center.

Manistique will have the task of trying to stop the Marquette Redmen. Marquette, carrying a 9-2 conference record into the contest could wrap up the Great Lakes crown with a victory.

Since Big Bay de Noc has already locked up the league title in the Central league, the only thing left is second place and going into this weekend's games, four teams are tied for the runnerup spot. Two of the teams, Bark River and Rapid River, will settle things between themselves, while Trenary must face Big Bay. Perkins, the fourth team still with a shot at second place, plays host to Rock on Saturday night.

Title Showdown
The big game in the Skyline Conference features Champion and Powers in a battle for the league championship. Powers clinched at least a tie for the crown by defeating Channing 76-73 Tuesday and could wrap up everything with a victory over Champion. Champion needs a victory to finish in a tie with the Tigers. The other games, Carney at Republic and National Mine at Hermansville, will have little effect on the conference standings.

Other games involving U. P. teams Friday night find Lake Linden at Calumet, Gwinn at Ironwood, Newberry at Ishpeming, Kingsford at West Iron County, Ewen-Trout Creek at Bessemer, Crystal Falls at Stephenson, Painesdale at Hancock, Ontonagon at Houghton, Dollar Bay at L'Anse, St. Ignace at Charlevoix, Wakefield at Baraga, Rudyard at Brimley, Engadine at Cedarville, Marenisco at Chassell, Soo Loretto at DeTour and Cheboygan Catholic at Pickford.

Outdoor Sports

By Bob Gregg

Some funny things can happen to you when you're an ardent hunter or fisherman. And the more ardent you are the more often these humorous things happen.

One of the funniest things I ever saw happened back in April, 1967, below Tippy Dam on Lower Michigan's Manistee River.

Several friends and myself had traveled to Tippy Dam for the early opening of steelhead season, which began at midnight. We arrived at about 11:30 p. m., parked the camper, grabbed our gear and immediately took positions on the riverbank below the dam.

There were about 100 anglers shoulder-to-shoulder wading along the banks and another 50 or so fishing from boats anchored in the heavy current.

For about an hour, not one of the avid anglers got a hit. Then, suddenly, a fisherman in one of the boats yells "fish on." The sportsmanship was unbelievable. Everyone reeled in to get out of the lucky angler's way and prepared to watch the nighttime battle.

Lots Of Action

The boat-fisherman had a coleman lantern in his boat, so it was easy for everyone to see his rod double over and dance with action. I was a little envious at the time.

Several times during the next few minutes the lucky fisherman's angling partner poked into the water with a large landing net in unsuccessful attempts to net the monster.

This must be a record steelhead I thought to myself as I watched his rod bend and jump fighting the tension.

The battle went on for about 20 minutes and everyone on the shore was shouting encouragement to the fellow in the boat when a little guy in baggy waders way down the shoreline yells at the top of his lungs "hold it, hold it, don't reel."

Silence fell over the frenzied crowd. "You pull and I'll give you line," the up-till-now quiet angler said. The angler in the boat saw his rod go straight, the tension was gone.

Suddenly about 150 anglers were laughing uproariously. I didn't stop laughing for about ten minutes. The two fishermen had fought each other for almost 30 minutes without either one knowing he had the other.

Hunting Pheasants

I used to go hunting with a friend of mine named Nick from Detroit who had a unique method of bagging pheasants.

First of all, he would lie belly down in a corn patch row with his shotgun aimed down the aisle of stalks and would proceed to gun down the birds as they trotted through his line of fire. He was quiet, crazy and very successful. I don't recommend his method however.

I also remember a tale I heard one night around the campfire about a whacky old Michigan hunter who was terribly deadly with an unusual weapon.

According to a close fishing and hunting friend of mine, who has the nerve to tell this story with a straight face, this 80-year-old hunter was out in the field stalking deer with aid of a cane when he saw this buck and shot it eight times.

I guess the old man was a little off in his aim, because despite the numerous hits the buck still wandered around the woods wounded. Here's where it gets thick.

Out of ammunition, the old hunter finally clubbed the deer to death with his cane. They both had to be carried back to camp.

Straight Stuff

Spring beaver and other trappers have a conservative season with Department of Natural Resources rules aimed at rebuilding furbearer numbers across the state.

A Western U. P. season is already underway, except for certain closed areas in Menominee, Dickinson and most of Iron County. Last year, 3,600 trappers bagged only about 8,000 beaver and 600 otter in the state.

Homebuilding Expense Inching Toward Peak

By DICK BARNES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Six years ago you could build a three-bedroom house in Northern California for $14,854. Today, the same house would cost you $21,509 to construct.

That's an increase of 46 per cent in six years—and the prices don't even include buying a lot to put your house on.

You'd find that among 36 categories of work going into the house, the only two that didn't increase in price since 1964 were plans and specifications, and preliminary lot work—both minor expenses.

Cabinets Cost High

Plumbing? Up 63 per cent. Rough carpentry labor? Up 52 per cent.

Linoleum floors? Up 43 per cent.

Cabinets? Up 112 per cent, the biggest increase of any category.

These figures come from Bank of America of San Francisco, which periodically submits for construction bids what it calls a "medium quality dwelling"—a three-bedroom, 2-bath, 1,395-square foot house with family room.

They reflect the national spiral in building costs which has contributed to the growing U.S. housing crisis along with tight money, rising land costs and a bevy of public and private constraints.

Reasons Listed

Bank of America figures pinpoint some of the reasons for rising home prices:

- Roofing material and labor, $705 in early 1964 to $1,151.
- Electric wiring, $613 to $1,100.
- Painting, $640 to $919.
- Sewer line and connection, $218 to $350.

Amidst these rising costs, no aspect seems more confused or contradictory than the price of labor.

Construction wages are shooting up so fast that a Southern California carpenter, for example, is in the midst of receiving a 39 per cent pay increase over four years.

Labor Costs Down

Yet a study by the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) shows that over a 20-year span, the cost of labor has declined from one-third of a house's price to less than one fifth.

Because the actual price of the "average house" used in the survey increased from $9,780 to $20,534, the dollar cost of the labor increased from $3,227 to $3,696 though the percentage declined.

Builders' overhead and profit was 15 per cent, or $1,467 in 1949, and 13 per cent, or $2,669 in 1969.

Land Price Doubles

Land nearly doubled from 11 per cent to 21 per cent—which meant a quadrupling in terms of actual dollars from $1,076 to $4,312. Financing costs went from 5 to 10 per cent—another quadrupling from $489 to $2,053.

Building materials increased from 36 per cent of the 1949 house's cost ($3,521) to 38 per cent ($7,803) in 1969.

Builder's claim, though, their profits are getting smaller. "My profit margin has dropped in half," said one. Another, Joseph Eichler of Los Altos, Calif., said the costs of doing business have increased.

"Builders have become more sophisticated in the last 20 years. He puts his name on his product. He advertises and has public relations and good offices. Builders didn't do those things 15 years ago."

Consumer Wants More

The builder isn't the only one who's getting fancier, however. The consumer wants more in his house, too.

"What everyone wants is a $40,000 house for $18,500," said

Henry Spies of the University of Illinois' Small Home Council.

"We're suddenly including a lot of things that weren't in the house before, like appliances and wall-to-wall carpeting, and we're demanding more space."

"This year's minimum house was a good average house in 1945," said Spies.

Whether the worker was constructing the wall or installing a new amenity, construction wages nationally increased from $112.00 per week average in 1968 to $121.20 in December 1969, according to a Commerce Department survey. These seemingly low figures include

Eye Methods For Handling State Turmoil

LANSING (AP)—In the wake of a recent student protest march, state officials Wednesday reviewed methods for handling turmoil at the Capitol in cases of tornadoes, fires or demonstrations.

"Emergencies don't happen every day," said Herbert Dejonge, deputy director of the State Administration Department, which is charged with handling such situations in the Capitol complex.

"There is always a need for reviewing what systems and procedures are available," Dejonge said. "I think Friday was a reminder that we've got to stay brushed up on what is available to us."

Some 125 young people gathered at the Capitol late last Friday afternoon, ran into riot-helmeted State Police and locked doors. Their march followed a rock-throwing, violence-marred protest Thursday in East Lansing against the outcome of the Chicago conspiracy trial.

Some state employees reportedly had been urged to leave the complex area before the young people arrived.

Lansing Mayor Gerald Graves, who sent city hall workers home some 15 minutes early Friday afternoon in anticipation of the march, also reportedly suggested state employees do the same.

"We're trying to set up a liaison system," replied House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit, when asked about the session that was attended by other legislative leaders, State Police director Fredrick Davids and Dejonge.

"We've never had any discussion previously about how such things should be handled," Ryan said, adding that House and Senate leaders would act as "liaisons" between lawmakers and the administration department.

An "emergency plan" already exists in the Senate, where President Pro Tem Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey, has previously called State Police to the Capitol.

Anticipation of a student protest brought some 60 State Police to the Capitol, but there was no trouble.

Funeral Set

SALINE (AP)—Funeral services were held today at Saline's United Methodist Church for Everett D. Esch, 51, a brother of Rep. Marvin L. Esch, D-Mich.

Esch, an executive over the last 17 years with the Hoover Ball and Bearing Co., died Monday night at an Ann Arbor hospital, following a short illness. The cause of death was not announced.

Terrible Start Floors Pistons

By The Associated Press

It took the Detroit Pistons more than seven minutes of playing time Wednesday night to make a field goal. The Pistons never recovered from their early start and suffered a 122-105 loss to Philadelphia in National Basketball Association play.

In other NBA action Wednesday night, Milwaukee nipped Baltimore 115-113. Boston crushed San Diego 147-124. Chicago topped San Francisco 112-104, and Seattle downed Atlanta 120-112.

In the American Basketball Association, New York edged Kentucky 117-114. Denver downed Carolina 120-110. Miami took Pittsburgh 124-115. Washington topped New Orleans 113-105 and Dallas nipped Los Angeles 147-142.

Hal Greer paced the 76ers attack with 29 points. Jim Washington had 24 points and Archie Clark and Bill Cunningham had 20 each.

Dave Bing hit for 32 points as the game's high scorer, but the next high, Jimmy Walker, got only 17.

Trailing 91-75 late in the third quarter, Milwaukee fought to within 111-110 before going ahead on baskets by Flynn Robinson and Greg Smith. Baltimore's Earl Monroe then hit a field goal before Lew Alcindor's free throw. Monroe missed a 15-foot jumper at the buzzer.

Alcindor scored 27 points and Monroe 25.

Boston erupted for 54 points in the fourth quarter in crushing San Diego. With the scored tied 108-108, the Celtics went on a 21-4 tear that put the game out of reach. Don Nelson poured in 40 points and John Havlicek 36 for Boston, while San Diego's Elvin Hake connected for 46.

Shaler Halimon came off the bench and scored nine points and Walt Wesley contributed six points to trigger a last-period spurt for Chicago against San Francisco. The Warriors suffered their eighth defeat in their last nine outings.

Bob Love's 32 points led the Bulls, who tightened their grip on third place in the Western Division. Jerry Lucas topped San Francisco with 20.

Bob Love collected 27 points, 11 in the final period, as Seattle won its third straight game. The loss left Atlanta, the Western pace-setter, 2½ games in front of idle Los Angeles.

Class D Event Pairings Made

POWERS — Pairings for the Class D district basketball tournament to be held in the Powers-Spalding High School gym next week were announced this morning.

The tourney will open on Tuesday, March 3, with Powers playing Felch at 8 p.m. Action continues on Thursday night with Hermansville meeting Carney at 7 and Bark River playing the winner of the Powers-Felch contest at 8:30.

The finals will be played Saturday night at 8:15.

Entries Mailed For Cage Event

HERMANVILLE — Entry blanks for the 32nd Annual Upper Michigan and North-eastern Wisconsin Amateur Gold Medal basketball tournament have been sent out, according to Douglas LaCourse, the tournament manager.

This year's tourney will be held on March 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 28 and 29 and any team wishing to enter the event not receiving an entry blank is asked to contact LaCourse at Box 181, Hermansville.

The Ashland Good Merchants of Ashland, Wis., last year's Class A champion, are expected back to defend their title, as are the Hermansville Stuhl Saws, champions in the Class B competition. The Good Merchants recently copped championship honors in the Green Bay Open tourney and Rich Sevels, a star performer here last year, was voted the outstanding player.

Other teams indicating an interest in this year's event are the Crystal Falls McNeil Oilers, the Stephenson Strollers, Escanaba Tom's Signs, Niagara Badgers, and Norway Louie's Bar. Entries are also expected to come from other teams in Iron Mountain, Escanaba, Menominee, Marinette, Ishpeming and Green Bay.

MANTLE TO HELP

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Mickey Mantle, who announced his retirement from here last spring, will join the New York Yankees staff of eight instructors during spring training.

The staff under Manager Ralph Houk includes Harry Craft, Gene Woodling, Cloyd Boyer, Steve Souchock, Frank Verdi, Lamar North and Clyde Klutz. Most of the staff will move in mid-March to the Yankees minor league training base at nearby Hollywood.

Wages Increase

With recent settlements providing even more gains, wages will keep increasing sharply.

John J. Riley, NAHB labor specialist, said 80 per cent of builders constructing single units and townhouses are not involved with labor agreements. But wages in their areas are normally influenced by the union pattern in nearby big cities.

Labor shortages in some areas boost wages above the scale rates through continuing overtime, piecework compensation or outright bounties to get labor.

In booming Orange County, California, a six-day week with 10-hour days is standard with the overtime at double time rates.

New Tiger Find Remains Missing

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Shortstop Cesar Gutierrez is supposed to be a real "find" for the Detroit Tigers.

But the Tigers would like to either find where he is, or would like for him to find his way to their spring training camp at Lakeland.

The little Venezuelan is the only regular who still hasn't shown up for spring practice. Visa problems caused a delay, but that matter was straightened out two days ago.

"It's just a matter of his getting on a plane and flying here," said a team spokesman Wednesday after the Tigers completed their first week of practice at Marchant Stadium. "He'll just get here when he shows up."

The 5-foot-8, 150-pounder played winter baseball in Venezuela and is probably in shape. But even though manager Mayo Smith has indicated "Coco" is his No. 1 shortstop, any longer delay could be enough time for another candidate to impress at the position.

Among the possibilities are knee-hampered Tom Tresh, non-roster veteran Dick Tracewski, and rookies Tim Marting and Ken Sotkiewicz.

"Gutierrez has the job unless he loses it," Smith said earlier this week. But afterwards he added, "I'm not thinking yet in terms of who's No. 1 or who's No. 2."

The 27-year-old Gutierrez spent eight full seasons in the minor leagues compiling impressive statistics. He was Pacific Coast League All-Star shortstop, rookie of the year and batting champion with a .322 average average at Phoenix in 1967.

His career in the minors is dotted with 300 averages, and he has been a consistently high base stealer, getting 40 at Lexington to lead the Western Carol.

Top Ski Fliers Enter Tourney At Ironwood

IRONWOOD (AP) — The second - third - and fourth-place finishers in the World Ski Jumping Championships in Czechoslovakia last weekend are entered in the first ski flying tournament ever held in the Western Hemisphere. It gets under way here Friday.

The longest jump in the world championships was 359 feet, five inches from a 90-meter hill. Leaps exceeding 500 feet are anticipated from Copper Peak's 120-meter hill here in Western upper Michigan.

Czechoslovakia's Jiri Raska, who finished second to Russia's Gari Napalov in the 90 meter world championship, already is on hand with five other Czech competitors.

Poland's Daniel Gasienica, third at Strbske Pleso, Czechoslovakia, and Austria's Ernst Kroell, fourth, are expected Thursday, along with three Norwegians who finished 1-2-3 in 90-meter competition last weekend at nearby Westby, Wis.

The Norwegians are Einar Bekken, Frydriot Prydz and Bent Tomtum, who finished in that order at Westby.

Ski jumping, an Olympic sport, and ski flying are similar, except for distances attained and minor differences in techniques. The ski flying world's record is 541 feet, compared with Napalov's 359-foot-5 jump last weekend and a North American jumping record of 335 held by Bjorn Wirkola of Norway.

Raska, the 1968 olympic 90-meter champion and silver medalist in the 70-meter competition, was accompanied by Zbynek Huback, Josef Kraus, Ladislav Divila, Rudolf Doubek, and Jiri Raska.
